. . . CAPTAIN TOO

First to greet Capt. Paul D. Taylor, commanding officer of Second Canadian Escort Squadron, at jetty this morning was 3½-year-old daughter, Penny, who refused to let Daddy out of her arms, and Mrs. Taylor, who is more accustomed to her husband's long absences on sea duty. Family reunions were the rule at Dockyard this morning.

U.K. Hangs Cypriot Greeks, Spurns U.S. Plea for Delay

LONDON (UP)—U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles personally asked Britain to delay the execution of two Greek Cypriot extremists today and was refused, the foreign office announced.

An official spokesman said Dulles raised the possibility of postponing the hangings during his meetings with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd at Paris last week.

The spokesman firmly declined any further information.

PUNNICHY, Sask. (CP)—The bodies of a young district farmer, Edward Zoski, and his wife Helen were found Wednesday night beside a rural road near this central Saskatchewan town, police said today.

A small-calibre rifle was reported found near the bodies.

GREAT LAKES SEAMEN STRIKE

By The Canadian Press

Eight Great Lakes ships were made idle and at least nine others were expected to be so today by a strike launched by the Seafarers' International Union, CLC, against two shipping companies.

The strike, which threatens to paralyze shipping on the Great Lakes system broke out as scheduled at noon today and spread through ports from Quebec City and Montreal to Fort William.

Crews began walking off ships at the stroke of noon (9 a.m. PDT), as union and company officials continued talks with a federal government mediator, H. Carl Goldenberg, in an effort to settle the dispute.

Rail Action Ends Threat Of Tieup

Conciliation Report Accepted

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian railways today announced acceptance of the majority report of a conciliation board as the basis for a new agreement with 150,000 non-operating employees.

The move virtually eliminated any possibility of a general railway strike. In a joint announcement, the railways and unions said they will meet here Friday to draft the new agreement.

The conciliation board's majority report proposed an 11 per cent wage increase for the non-operating group, spread over the next 14 months. The contract would run for two years. The railways contended acceptance would require federal subsidy or alternatively, higher freight rates.

The unions had sought an 18 per cent increase plus an eight cents an hour contribution by the companies to a health and welfare plan in a one-year contract.

TWO DAYS AFTER TALKS

The railways' acceptance of the report came two days after a breakdown in post-conciliation talks.

The union representatives met in Montreal Wednesday night, but there was no announcement as to what transpired.

The unions already had accepted the award of a board of conciliation but the railway had not. This situation led to post-conciliation negotiations at the request of Labor Minister Gregg.

11-PER-CENT BOOST

The majority report of the railways have accepted proposed an 11-per-cent wage increase for the non-operating group, spread over the next 14 months. The contract would run for two years.

The unions had sought an 18-per cent increase plus an eight-cents-an-hour contribution by the companies to a health and welfare plan in a one-year contract.

Capt. Taylor also said there was great value in ships from both commands working together.

"We carried out almost every type of exercise," he said. "Surface and anti-aircraft firing, torpedo attacks, anti-submarine work under a variety of conditions."

He expressed himself as "very pleased" with the "new" Crescent. The ship, packed with electronic aids to navigation and sea warfare, can be sailed or fought without men on the exposed decks.

The Crescent took part in some of the exercises "buttoned up" under conditions designed to protect against the fall-out after an atomic attack.

A small-calibre rifle was reported found near the bodies.

Labor MPs Force Debate on Frogman

(See Also Page 7)

LONDON (UP)—Britain's opposition Labor Party today forced a Parliamentary debate on the mysterious case of the missing Frogman believed to have died beneath a Soviet cruiser in Portsmouth harbor last month.

Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden's reluctant government bowed before a storm of press and political denunciation and agreed to a debate next Monday on the disappearance of retired RNR Lt.-Cdr. Lionel Crabb.

Hugh Gaitskell's Labor party was expected to seek a vote against Eden's government because he was "not in the public interest" to do so.

The issue of the undersea mission that led Crabb to his presumed death during the visit of Russian leaders Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev.

Eden declined to tell the full story of the spy-thriller case in a speech to the House of Commons Wednesday because he was "not in the public interest" of the undersea mission that led Crabb to his presumed death during the visit of Russian leaders Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev.

Eden's government was accused of being responsible for the disappearance of Crabb.

Churchill said no one could doubt the usefulness of the Western European Union, the Coal and Steel Community and the Council of Europe, but he believed that the main theme of salvation for Europe should be the grand alliance of European powers linked with Canada and the United States and Canada.

Churchill noted that he had not been to Germany since the Potsdam conference at the close of the war in Europe, and much had happened in those 11 years.

"In fact, in the first two years Russia pursued a policy which divided her from her allies.

"We have now been told on high Russian authority that it was the Stalin policy—and Stalin, who was then all-powerful, is dead.

"There followed very speedily during the Stalin policy a reconciliation between the British Commonwealth and the United States on the one hand, and the great mass of Western Germany on the other.

TOPEKA, Man. (AP)—Police today held two little brothers, 7 and 8, and accused them of filching $1,200 from a restaurant safe.

Lieut. Don Laird, chief of the police department's youth bureau, said that as near as he could piece together the story, one or the other walked in and out of the Main Street Cafe six times to get the money. They wanted to buy candy.

It was so fantastic that Laird had them tell it to a tape recorder.

An older boy was their undoing. He told police the boys were going around with a lot of money.

Guilty Plea In Assault On Policeman

Paul Turlock, Victoria, will be sentenced in city police court Tuesday on charges of assaulting a police officer and carelessly driving last Saturday.

He pleaded guilty to both charges today and was remanded for a probation report.

The assault charge arose when police constable John Rickerby was bitten on the thumb while investigating an accident at Bay and Government streets last Saturday night.

Const. Rickerby told court today that after arriving at the scene he repeatedly asked Turlock for his driver's licence and other papers.

Said Turlock attempted to start his vehicle. When he attempted to leave the scene on foot the constable seized him by one arm.

Turlock then told the constable, "If you don't leave me alone I'll fill you in," witness said.

ASKED AGAIN

Const. Rickerby said he then asked the man again for his driver's licence.

The constable was seized by pockets on his tunic and pushed. When he brought his hands up to break the grip he was bitten on the thumb, Const. Rickerby testified.

He said he required assistance from two other constables and one member of the provost corps to break the grip on his thumb.

The thumb was badly lacerated and required medical treatment.

COLLISION

In regards to the driving charge, court was told Turlock had been driving north on Government when he collided with a truck proceeding west on Bay.

Turlock told police it was his fault as he went through a red light, court heard.

Two people in the truck were injured and taken to hospital. Damage to the truck was $500. To the car $350, police said.

Space Held Adequate For Destitute Aged

Victoria welfare officials said today this district is adequately supplied at present with facilities for care of the destitute aged.

Cit welfare administrator William Hooson said provincial and civic welfare is available to supplement pensions and provide shelter whenever a need is reported.

"There are vacancies in approved boarding homes and vacancies occur weekly in private hospitals. The matter of providing this care is up to individual doctors. We go almost entirely on their recommendations."

Mr. Hooson was interviewed on the question: "Is there any need for any aged person in this community to suffer because his pension is insufficient and he is unable to care for himself?"

CANT FORCE THEM

"No," said the administrator. "But it's a free country. If the individual won't accept this care, we can't force him to do so."

He said there are almost 800 beds in licensed nursing homes and hospitals now.

"By and large, we are never stuck."

He said there have been cases when elderly persons insist on living alone in harsh circumstances.

"It is expected they will meet with Mayor Jack Dobson on arrival."

The group leaves here at 11 a.m.

Several trips later the brothers hid about $500 in a stairway near the theatre. They said they turned the other loot over to the older pair and went with them to bury it.

Laird said $582 was recovered, mostly from the stairway. When the boys took him to the spot where the other money was supposed to be, it was gone.

Footnote: Laird said he left the room once while the boys were talking to the tape recorder. When he came back, his desk had been rifled.

Dr. Steel Still In Coma; Second Operation

Dr. Anne Steel of Victoria entered her fifth day of unconsciousness today after two brain operations to relieve pressure in the skull following a riding accident near Osoyoos Saturday.

Hospital authorities described her condition today as "still extremely critical."

Dr. John Harvey operated on the doctor in Oliver Monday and performed a similar operation Wednesday afternoon in St. Joseph's hospital where the patient was taken after being flown here Tuesday by the RCAF.

Dr. Harvey and Dr. W. A. McElroy are in constant attendance.

He said he required assistance from two other constables and one member of the provost corps to break the grip on his thumb.

The thumb was badly lacerated and required medical treatment.

Pile Drivers' Union Claims Right to Control Dock Work

Donald Bushell, business agent for pile drivers international union local 2415 testified in Supreme Court today his union has complete jurisdiction over work to be carried out at the CPR dock here.

Jurisdiction, he said, was acknowledged by the carpenters' union.

Mr. Wheaton claimed carpenters were ordered to stop work by Mr. Bushell and James Moffat, carpenters' business agent, contrary to a collective agreement.

He is asking undated damages from the two business agents and the unions for interfering with his contract.

He also asks a declaration that he be allowed to engage carpenters to carry on the work. Mr. Wheaton also charges pile drivers aided and abetted carpenters to stop work at the dock.

One of Mr. Wheaton's main arguments at the trial was that carpenters ers are entitled to work in any capacity on lumber.

Mr. Bushell denied that his union threatened or aided and abetted carpenters to stop work at the dock.

He testified the work stopped as a result of an executive meeting between carpenters' and pile drivers' unions. The unions agreed the work was in jurisdiction of pile drivers.

Income Tax Changes
Await Gordon Report

(From Times News Services)

The government is waiting for recommendations by the Gordon royal commission on Canada's economic prospects before proposing changes in the Income Tax Act to widen depletion allowances given to companies involved in resources development.

William Benidickson, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Harris, said Wednesday that the government wants to hear the commission's views before considering the changes.

Mr. Harris added that it now is too late to give thorough consideration to a whole revision of the depletion allowances for this year.

They spoke in reply to criticisms by Carl Nickle (PC, Calgary South), who said the tax laws are making it tough for Canadians to take part in the country's resources development.

Sell Developments to U.S. Interests

The present Canadian tax provision, he said, discourages well owners from extensive exploration. Exploration companies now were forced to sell their developments to U.S. interests in order to show a profit.

Mr. Nickle said the principle of a depletion allowance is based on the fact oil well owners must explore constantly for new deposits to stay in business.

Mr. Nickle asked the government to abandon its intention to plug a loophole in its 1949 income tax law which granted the depletion allowance.

The government intended the law to apply to the general profits of a company, but some companies found it more profitable to apply the allowances against individual wells.

The Home Oil Company won a case on that point in the supreme court of Canada in 1950.

The next year, the government passed an order-in-council to reinstate its original intention and now proposes to embody the provision in the Income Tax Act.

Mr. Nickle said the law should be applied as the supreme court ruled, but Mr. Harris rejected the plea.

Liberal Senator Hits Out at Divorce

A prominent Quebec Liberal senator declared Wednesday that divorce is a "scourge which must be fought wherever it exists, no matter what our religious creed may be."

Senator Henri Bouffard, 61-year-old Quebec lawyer-banker and father of three children, told his senate colleagues the indissolubility of marriage must be upheld if the family is to remain the basic of society. He recognized it brought individual hardships, but these must be subordinated for the good of society as a whole.

In a quickly-interrupted speech of almost two hours, Senator Bouffard spoke out strongly against bill to take Quebec and Newfoundland divorces out of parliament and put them under the jurisdiction of the exchequer court at Ottawa. The two provinces have no divorce courts of their own.

This, he said, would in effect be creating a divorce court for Quebec which Quebec Roman Catholics did not want. It would violate the Quebec civil code which enforced the indissolubility of marriage and also a "gentlemen's agreement" made in 1866 when jurisdiction for marriage and divorce was placed in the Parliament of Upper and Lower Canada.

Senator J. P. Howden (L. Manitoba), a Baptist member of the senate divorce committee, said "the great majority of cases are from Quebec and are not English-speaking."

Stanley Knowles Wednesday said that if Revenue Minister McCann doesn't like special income tax exemptions they should be replaced by a general increase in the basic exemption.

Perhaps these should be changed to $1,500 for single taxpayers and $3,000 for married ones, instead of the present statutory exemptions of $1,000 single and $2,000 married, the CCF member for Winnipeg North Centre suggested.

In this age of brassy rock-and-roll music, Canadians are showing a liking for the politely

Battle Lines Being Drawn On Pipeline

Filibuster
'To Eternity',
Says Tory

By JAMES R. NELSON

OTTAWA (BUP) — The combined opposition took up the stubborn stance of an army mule today when the government let it be known that it had a six-week timetable for the balance of the session.

According to the plan, the session should be over about the third week of June, when three provincial elections are being held, and when Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent must leave for a Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference in London.

Part of the plan, too, is to have the contentious pipelines legislation through parliament by June 1.

But the plan laid down by government House leader Walter Harris, minister of finance, is in direct contradiction of the plans of the opposition parties who are preparing to filibuster the pipelines bill, and fight other government proposals.

Asked how long he thought the session would last, in the light of the government timetable, one conservative front-bench MP said, "It will demonstrate the meaning of eternity."

3 PROVINCIAL VOTES

New Brunswick, Quebec, and Saskatchewan voters will go to the polls in the provincial elections on June 18 and 20. The Quebec elections will draw the bulk of Quebec representation away from the chamber for several weeks before the contest. The Saskatchewan election will do the same for many federal MPs from that province.

Mr. St. Laurent is reported planning to take two and possibly three of his cabinet colleagues with him to London, including Trade Minister C. D. Howe, sponsor of the pipeline loan legislation.

Howe told parliament Tuesday that his new legislation, guaranteeing Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. 90 per cent of the capital needed to build the Alberta-to-Winnipeg section of the line, must be passed before a start can be made on the construction target date, July 1.

Outside the chamber, he said parliamentary approval must be given well in advance of the starting date.

Maritime senators raised a storm of protest Wednesday over a new international convention to control the dumping of oil by ships at sea, charging that the 50-mile off-shore protection Canada will get is useless.

Senator Gordon Bradley, Newfoundland Liberal, said the 50-mile prohibition "is about as good as 50 yards."

Ships prohibited from dumping oil within 100 miles of the coast of Britain or Europe would now dump their oil in the western Atlantic where it would wash up on the shores of Newfoundland. That province already had a great oil-pollution problem which he believed resulted from oil dumped by ships in cleaning tanks and bilges.

Senator J. Kinley, Liberal from Halifax, said Canada should have held out for a protected area greater than 50 miles. Britain got 100 miles and Australia 150. He said the Senate could refuse to approve the convention.

Survival in the New Climate

VIEWING THE RESULTS TO date of their "smiling" policy in international affairs, the Kremlin leaders have good reason to preen themselves. Within a few months of putting their plan to work, they have achieved successes which Joseph Stalin, with his program of blood and belligerency, completely failed to gain.

For instance, by shipping swords rather than rattling them, Mr. Khrushchev and his partners now have won themselves a place in Middle East affairs which for centuries had eluded Russia's rulers. Stalin's military adventures in Greece did not gain him such a position. They merely roused the United States to an effective program of aid to foreign allies threatened by communism. His experiment with armed revolt in Azerbaijan likewise brought nothing but renewed opposition from the West.

But the undercover work of Moscow representatives planted in Egypt arms, and advisers, from behind the Iron Curtain. By so simple a step did Russia sway the precarious balance in the Middle East and win itself a vote in future discussions of how that balance should be preserved.

The recent London talks added confirmation of Soviet authority. Summing up the meetings, Prime Minister Eden noted that "We both (Britain and Russia) want to try to bring about a settlement of the conflict between Israel and her Arab neighbors . . . We know that we and our Soviet guests share this purpose . . ."

When Russia declared that war must be prevented in the Arab-Israeli quarter and urged the quarreling countries to maintain the peace, a sigh of relief was heard around the globe. The pronouncement did not guarantee peace, but it made peace much more likely. Then, with the Middle East dispute placed in the jurisdiction of the U.N. Security Council, largely on United States urging, the Soviet Union automatically stepped into the picture with a seat at the Council table and a veto to use when it suits Moscow's purposes.

Stalin's threats in Europe, voiced and implied, produced NATO, a western European defence plan and a re-armed West Germany. While the danger was greatest Western defence proceeded apace. The added impetus of the Korean war, to which

Spilling Across the Border

ACCORDING TO UNITED STATES figures—and they are not supported by Canadian totals—because this country apparently doesn't keep a tally—282,000 Canadians took up residence in the U.S. during the last 10 years, while 90,909 Americans made their homes in Canada.

It has been a well-established fact in postwar years that many immigrants to this country have used it only as a stopping place on the way to the United States. But their number—40,800 in the nine years from 1946 to 1954—is but a fraction of the total.

The figures produced by the United States Embassy in Ottawa indicate a leveling off in the immigration both ways across the border. The totals, however, show a highly adverse balance to Canada.

Good Listening, But . . .

PUBLIC WORKS MINISTER W. N. Chant will find attentive ears in Victoria for his discussion of public buildings and other improvements that would add to the attractiveness of the city.

It is gratifying to hear him say that a structure similar to the Douglas building is a "pressing need" and also that the capital would benefit from one or two outdoor swimming pools.

These words sound pleasant. So

Age of 'Death Song'

WHITE MAGIC HAS TRIUMPED over black and Australian aborigine Lya (Charlie) Wulamu who has not succumbed to the "death song" of his mother-in-law.

The western world knows something of the powers of auto-suggestion and will not discount entirely the possibility that Charlie could have frightened himself to the grave. But the average person will be inclined to doubt the fatal effects of a song—unless the average person happens to be the parent of a teenager.

There isn't anything malevolent about the Henry Aldrich type who tries to combine a cracked voice with the present output of the disc industry.

But give him a weekend devoted—as it often seems to be—to the unending attempt to sing "Rock Around the Clock," or "Mamba Rock" and he can reduce an adult to a state able only to "Shake, Rattle and Roll."

Not a death song, perhaps, but enough to make any grown-up query "O grave where is thy victory?"

Blot on the Nice New Shirt Front

FROM LONDON By WALTER LIPPmann

Summing Up the Talks

THE SOVIET visits to London were carried out on two levels, one being a public encounter in propaganda and public relations, the other a serious exchange of views between the two governments. Much has been written about the public encounter, about the silence of the crowds and about the row at the Labor party dinner. We can readily exaggerate the significance of that side of the affair. In France and Italy, with their large Communist parties, a cool and rather unfriendly public reception would have been news. But in Britain the Communists are negligible as a political party. The elements of a popular front, such as Moscow now hopes for, do not exist.

There is a general agreement in London that talking with Malenkov, Bulganin and Khrushchev is quite a different thing from what it has been to talk with Molotov. The conversations seem to have gone well in the sense that the speaking was plain, unemotional and matter of fact.

Power Politics

The language was that of unadorned, self-conscious and unashamed power politics—of alliances, bases, oil, bombers, missiles, steel and ships. In terms such as these, the conditions not of friendship but of co-existence were freely discussed.

Although there was no formal agreement, there seems to have been progress towards a meeting of minds about the Middle East.

There is some reason to think that the ground was prepared for this during Malenkov's exploratory visit to England. He had then been told in the plainest terms, particularly by the Labor leaders, that the survival of Israel, and the maintenance of the West European oil supply from the Middle East were fighting matters.

Malenkov, at least, seems to have acknowledged explicitly the validity of these two British interests. A few days after his return home, the Soviet government issued its statement in support of the UN mediation.

The talks with Bulganin and Khrushchev brought further confirmation of the shift in Soviet Middle Eastern policy. It transpired that the Soviet Union does not itself need or want the oil of the Middle East.

We are not faced, therefore, with a conflict of vital interests between the Soviet Union and Western Europe each seeking the oil of the Middle East. Moreover, the Arab states do not have in the Soviet Union an alternative customer for their oil.

Military Pact

The Russian visitors, I was told, said frankly that they would make trouble for Britain in the oil fields in order to nullify the Baghdad pact. In their eyes, this pact is a military arrangement leading to the establishment of United States Strategic Air Force bases in Iraq and Iran.

They were given assurances that the pact was purely defensive. But it is not probable that they believed these assurances. There is something here for diplomacy to do.

We can have cautious confidence that for the near future at least the danger of war in the Middle East has been reduced. The danger lay in the encouragement, which came near to being the incitement, of Nasser by the Soviet Union, bent on forcing its way into the Middle East.

The danger was averted by two actions. One was Britain's making it plain to the Kremlin that an Egyptian military adventure means British intervention certainly, and American intervention most probably. The other was the action initiated in Washington, to take Palestine to the United Nations. This brought the Russians into the Middle East peacefully and legitimately.

So far we may say, so good.

A Jumble of Recollections

THE rather exhausting experience of interviewing at some length seventy-five American voters of all shapes, sizes, and shades of political opinion leaves you with a curious jumble of recollections. You remember how nice and friendly people are, even when their privacy is invaded by total strangers. You remember how uninformed many are ("Harriman? Well, I can't rightly say who that is") and how articulate ("Why do I like Ike? Well, he just seems like an awful nice sort of person").

They do not, of course, envision Russia as plotting an immediate, even an early future, war. Other factors have entered the picture which would have restrained even a war-mad maniac such as Adolf Hitler. The H-bomb and the long-range bomber have made war an extremely hazardous implement of international policy. The inter-continental missile with nuclear warhead will make it even more so—perhaps make war definitely suicidal.

But peaceful co-existence, in a world divided by ideologies, will have its own dangers. The West's problem must be to remain vigilant over a long term while still retaining its democratic ideals—a problem of internal organization and co-operation which will tax leadership and public alike.

You remember also certain totally unscientific, purely personal, but nevertheless very vivid political impressions. This reporter has brought away with him two such impressions.

One is that President Eisenhower is stronger with the voters—at least outside the farm areas—than in 1952. The other is that something sad and mysterious has happened, to tarnish the public image of Adlai E. Stevenson.

This reporter embarked on the pulse-feeling expedition suspecting that President Eisenhower's popularity might be thin and brittle, an artificial product of political propaganda. The suspicion was totally unfounded. The President's popularity is genuine and deep-rooted, and it will be extraordinarily difficult for the Democrats to counteract it.

Of the 75 people this reporter and the expert professional pollster, Louis Harris, have interviewed in this area, only one previous Eisenhower voter showed any signs of defecting.

Man of Peace

Eight previous Stevenson voters had gone over to Eisenhower, or moved into the "don't know" category. But these meager statistics are unimpressive. What was impressive was the way people talked.

"President Eisenhower is a man of peace." We heard that phrase, or something like it, again and again. Moreover, distasteful as it is for this reporter to admit, there was virtually no feeling that the Eisenhower peace was insecurely defended.

One big, jovial woman on a middle class street said she had her doubts about the Administration's defense policies, as a result of listening to Arthur Godfrey. But that was all.

"Why, that's the first thing Ike would think of," another lady said, and she spoke for the vast majority.

Prosperity, unlike peace, is a negative Eisenhower asset. Not many people feel better off than they did in 1952. But they do not feel worse off, and it is clear when you talk to them that many expected to, under a Republican administration.

The President has a third, a rather astonishing, political asset—his heart attack. A good many people apparently intended to vote for the President rather than one might send flowers to a sick friend, to cheer him up.

Lacks Reality

We were unable to find a single person who had decided to vote against the President because of his health. And the heart attack has clearly made a real human being of the President, in a way that no other political personality is real and human.

That is what the Stevenson candidacy seems to lack—a sense of the reality and humaneness of the man.

Stevenson was quite right when he complained, after the Minnesota primaries, of a "failure to communicate." As one Democrat put it, "Stevenson just doesn't stand for anything any more. He talks with that big vocabulary but it doesn't make any sense any more."

Of course there are plenty of Stevenson supporters and even enthusiasts—particularly among the negro voters, whom Stevenson is miles out in front of both President Eisenhower and Senator Estes Kefauver. ("Are you against Kefauver because he's a southerner?" we asked one big, genial negro lady. "Amen," she replied fervently.)

Curious Hostility

But outside the negro areas, even in the heavily Democratic precincts, we repeatedly ran across a curious and inexplicable hostility towards Stevenson. "I just don't go for that Adlai," people would say.

There was some spotty enthusiasm for Kefauver ("He's the only honest one, all the rest are crooks"). But it seemed clear that no Democratic candidate had even begun to light a fire in the land.

If one may be permitted to draw a large conclusion from a tiny sampling of the way the voters talk, it is this: Something big and important and dramatic, either here or abroad, is going to have to happen to change the situation, if the Democrats are to have a ghost of a chance of recapturing the White House in November.

Parking Problem

There are several employees of the B.C. provincial government parking their cars all day, Monday to Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., in front of private houses on the city of Victoria streets, causing annoyance and inconvenience to the owners and residents of same. There have been several complaints from them about it.

I have made a survey of the number of cars parked on the city streets of Victoria in the vicinity of the Parliament Buildings of approximately 470 motor cars.

The B.C. provincial government parking lot on the east side of Government Street, between Belleville and Elliott Streets, has now a capacity of 350 motor cars. In this parking lot there is unnecessary waste space. More cars could be parked if angle parking was adopted.

I suggest that this parking area should be replanned and laid out for a gle parking. The B.C. government should build a large three or four-story parking garage in the vicinity of the Parliament Buildings to house and take the employees' parked cars off the city streets.

The motor car parking problem has now become an acute and vexing question, and very soon there will be no ground surface space available for car parking on the city streets. The only solution is to provide three or four-story parking garages in the vicinity of the downtown business district. Parking sites should be obtained now before it is too late.

Three Topics

I have three things I would like to write you about:

Theta Lake—Why pick on that lovely though much abused little jewel of a lake to have, of all things, power-boat racing? As if there was no other big water around! What will the pair of wild geese and loons do? That racket will certainly drive them off their nests forever.

Daylight Saving Time—Why do we have to lie to ourselves? Why don't we say: Let's get up one hour earlier, go to work at 7 instead of 8? It is a sad thing, I think, that we put our faith more into our clocks than into God's sun.

Capital Punishment—Mr. Cadwalader's letter in Tuesday's Times reminds me so much of the clergy at Abraham Lincoln's time, who proclaimed that slavery was God-ordained, according to the Bible. And they were right... as far as the Bible is concerned. For at the time of the Old Testament slavery was accepted as a matter of course, just as was capital punishment. "An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth."

But I would say we should have made some progress since the time of the Old Testament, not only in material things, but also in morals and religion. For even religion is a living, growing thing. It should be the most living thing, but alas, it is so often just a dead thing, out of a book.

But God is a living God and He speaks to us just as much and plain as He did in olden times. Only we seem to have lost the art of listening to Him. But there are still some people who do listen. And they are the ones who condemn capital punishment as a relic of barbarism. Just ask yourselves one question: Would you like to be a hangman? HENRY SCHMIDT. 210 Millstream Road.

Gentleman George

YOUNG and old called him "George." But most of them didn't know his other name until they saw his funeral notice in the local paper.

The people who missed him most were the two families who lived at the edge of the deep, tree-shaded ravine. And, of these, the five little boys who made up the families, missed him most of all.

For George had been their friend ever since they could remember.

To them, he wasn't a heavy, ugly old man with a weathered red face and store teeth that champed a little when he ate.

He was safe, solid George who watched over them when they were toddlers, who had cookies in a tin in his shack, who knew where the pheasant's nest was, who knew when the salmon were beginning to come up the creek.

Ruth

liniment bottle and held it above his head so that the remaining drops trickled in his eyes. It was George who plunged the kid's head into a pail of cold water so that the stinging stuff was washed out. Because George, for all his bulk, could move fast in a crisis.

In their toddling stage, George was their baby-sitter on the rare occasions when parents went out together.

He used to give them the drinks of water they wanted, and lift them out of their cribs and supervise them in the bathroom.

He'd get out splinters for them, and doctor up the minor wounds, and arbitrate in fights and say just what he thought when boys stole green peaches from the tree against the wall.

They always knocked politely on the door of George's little shack because George didn't like kids who "come bustin' in" just like they owned the place.

George's shack was small and shabby, but absolutely shining clean. His stove was just perfection. His woodpile was a dream. His two saucepans and his frying pan each hung on its special hook.

The boys knew the white enamel basin where he washed at a table on the porch. They knew, too, that they would have to wash if they were hoping for a cookie.

They knew the four-pound jam tin where he kept his clothes pegs, and the galvanized tub where he washed his striped shirts, his old-fashioned bib overalls and his long-legged pinkish underwear.

They drank from the dipper hanging by the pall of cold well-water.

And I know that I've been blasted for glorifying the commonplace."

But, if you ask me, George was a gentleman.

He was kind and honest and considerate. His instincts were the best. He was always gentle and polite to women. He was immensely patient with children.

If he said he'd do a thing, he'd do it. You could count on George.

He was almost illiterate, but his fund of natural knowledge was amazing.

He knew nothing of art or literature or music, but he had an eye for natural beauty.

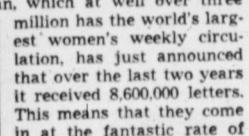

And his concern for those he loved was very deep and true.

I learned a lot from knowing George. And I'm not ashamed to say so.

Letters to the Editor

I ALWAYS KNEW the English were dead keen on writing to the papers, but I've just learned what proportions it has reached. The magazine Woman, which at well over three million has the world's largest women's weekly circulation, has just announced that over the last two years it received 8,600,000 letters. This means that they come in at the fantastic rate of more than 11,000 a day.

Having worked on magazines on both sides of the Atlantic, it has always puzzled me that whereas English readers hasten to put pen to paper, Canadian readers are by comparison poor correspondents. The fact that some publications here pay for letters (usually a guinea or just short of $3) is a stimulus but it is not entirely the explanation.

English readers will write copiously to papers and periodicals that don't pay for letters. Is it that the English are more interested in controversy and exchange of ideas? It can't be that the housewife here has more time for letter writing than her Canadian cousin, because supposedly her lack of labor-saving devices keeps her busy around the house.

Is it that the English, shy at striking up conversations, can lose their self-consciousness on paper? Maybe you have an explanation.

IF YOU OWN a budgeteer and have that problem of catching it again if it gets out of the cage, here's a tip for you. Friend of mine was bemoaning the fact that he had spent a whole Sunday retrieving his bird when someone who overheard us said: "You don't need to go to all that trouble next time. Just turn the hose on it or empty some water on it. With its wings wet it can't fly and you just pick it up."

PRINCESS MARGARET, champion theatre-goer of the Royal Family, has so far been to the theatre eight times this year—more than once a fortnight. At this rate she's likely to top last year's tally of 27 shows.

IT SEEMS they make it awfully tough for 11-year-old youngsters trying to get into Britain's free grammar schools. There's agitation to simplify the entrance tests, many of the questions of which stump the average adult. Sharpen your wits on this one, for instance: "O T T F F S . . . What are the next two letters in this series?" I'd say you'd have to be in genius class to solve that one. If you want to try it, don't look at the last sentence of this paragraph, which will give you the answer. The letters stand for One, Two, Three, Four, Five, Six—so that the next two are S and E, standing for Seven and Eight.

TO DISSUADE London bus passengers from trying to get free rides, London Transport have now put up notices in their vehicles bearing the information that every day 15 people are convicted of evading payment of fares.

Sacred Sweep In Sask.
Says ManningInterest, Enthusiasm Hits All-Time High

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier Manning says indications are that Social Credit will sweep Saskatchewan in the June 20 election in that province.

"Interest and enthusiasm for Social Credit have never been more approached what they are now in Saskatchewan," the premier said Wednesday night on his return from political meetings in Regina.

He cited the example of about 1,500 persons turning out to a Social Credit rally and described it as "something terrific."

Asked what effect a victory for Social Credit in Saskatchewan would have in the next federal election, Premier Manning said: "The old-line parties haven't got the answer to our problems, and Social Credit is the only alternative."

RN RATED FROGMAN 'UNFIT FOR SEA DUTY'

Crabb Was Daredevil... In Monocle or Flippers

By SONIA YOUNG

LONDON (Reuters) — Lt. Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabb, Britain's ace wartime naval "frog man" whose recent disappearance on a mysterious mission in Portsmouth harbor has touched off a major political storm, once was turned down by the admiralty as unfit for sea service.

He loved the sea, but had hardly ever swum until he made his first wartime dive in 1942 as the Royal Navy's first unattached diver.

That dive was made in search of Italian "Limpet" mines attached to ships in Gibraltar. The five-foot, five-inch hero went down in a comical-looking Victorian bathing suit and submarine's escape gear.

Later he said: "Much to my surprise and horror I found myself caressing a cylindrical object about two feet long. It took two of us three-quarters of an hour and the contents of one bottle of rum to remove it."

TWO MAJOR DECORATIONS

Between that first dive and his last one three weeks ago he became a naval career man with decorations—a monocled daredevil in flippers.

His decorations came in 1944—the George Medal for "gallantry and undaunted devotion to duty"—and 1945, the Order of the British Empire for "distinguished service during the war in Europe."

When Italy surrendered he was commissioned to take charge of keeping the northern Italian ports clear for British warships and landing craft. At the end of the war he went to Israel, searching the bottom of ships in Haifa harbor for limpet mines placed by Jews fighting for an independent state free of British control.

Then he came home to England and was out of work. He took a job as a night watchman.

In 1950 he donned his kit again to drop slowly down a 60-foot anchor chain to the smashed and sunken submarine Truculent, which lay at the bottom of the Thames estuary with 60 men dead inside.

The resolution was forwarded to Premier Bennett with a preamble saying more than 4,000 signed cards have been sent to the association protesting compulsory pasteurization of milk.

G. E. Bonner, association president, said support for the campaign against pasteurization has come from Parksville, Courtenay, Campbell River and Central Saanich.

POR ALBERNI—Health Minister Eric Martin promised at a public meeting here to discuss the question of milk legislation with Agriculture Minister Kenneth Kiernan.

The meeting had been called to review legislation that puts on municipalities the responsibility of deciding for or against pasteurization.

Speaking on the subject of freedom of choice, he said: "It may be that something will have to be done about it."

Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association asked municipalities to allow people to purchase raw milk if they so desire.

Speed Up Planning Of Hospital---Martin

Duncan Warned Cowichan Lake Area Will Get Priority If City Hesitates

DUNCAN—The provincial government is only waiting for a definition of the hospital improvement district for a new King's Daughters' Hospital here and the local proposal for financing the hospital, Minister Eric Martin said at the installation dinner of the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce.

"When you people of the Duncan-Cowichan area decide what the boundaries are of your hospital, we can get on with the job," Mr. Martin said.

He warned that if Duncan does not get on with its hospital expansion "we are going to have to start contemplating expansion in the Cowichan Lake area." He said that once instructions were received from the hospital committee it was likely that rapid progress could be made with additions to existing facilities here.

Hart power line to Victoria in addition to the new mainland source after the project is completed next fall. For some years BCE has bought power under contract from the publicly owned Power Commission which developed the John Hart system at Campbell River.

Home building in the city and the opening of new subdivisions on the outskirts will force expansion of the city sewer system, city council learned Wednesday.

At a special meeting of city and provincial health and engineering officials, R. G. Brown, director of the provincial health department, said an expansion of the sewer plant would be required before his department would approve extensions of sewer lines.

He said one immediate requirement will be the extension of the outfall from the sewer plant across Fish Gut Creek to the main Cowichan River. The main outfall now crosses the creek but a second discharge into the smaller stream.

Health officials said they were concerned about the health menace to Indians living downstream.

Dr. E. W. Best, Nanaimo medical health officer, said even a perfect system on the Cowichan River would still expose Indians below the plant to danger of contamination from drinking water. The Duncan plant is not perfect and corrective action is required, he said.

Hume and Rumble Limited of Vancouver will erect 53 steel towers for the incoming line. Height of the towers will range from 50 to 130 feet and day and night shifts are on the job.

The new switching station will have a three-fold purpose: to bring power to the Victoria area, to switch John Hart Power through to the mainland, and to bring mainland power to Nanaimo and upper Vancouver Island, if it is needed.

Giant Scout Pageant at Arena May 18, 19; 2,000 to Take Part

For the first time in British Columbia and probably for the first time in Canada, Boy Scouts of Greater Victoria next week will present a gigantic historical pageant.

Approximately 2,000 Scouts and Wolf Cubs in the area will take part.

"Scoutorama" will be presented by the Boy Scouts' Association, Victoria District, Friday and Saturday, May 18 and 19, starting at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Arena.

Depicted in 17 scenes will be history of the area from 1850 to 1956. The big show will be presented from the floor of the arena.

Included in scenes will be the building of Fort Victoria, pioneer settlement of Saanich and Sooke, and scenes from the gold rush days.

Theme will then turn to development of Scouting in Greater Victoria, which started in 1909, highlighted by the visit of Scouting's founder, Lord Baden-Powell, here in 1935.

Freeman King, a longtime Scoutmaster, will play the part of Baden-Powell in the presentation, and will also lead the grand parade at the start of each evening's performance.

The parade will have the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) pipe band taking part.

On hand for the show will be 20 Scouts from Seattle. In all, 38 district troops are taking part from here.

Organist Reginald Stone will provide background music while Dick Batéy will be narrator. Script was prepared by Ellen Hart.

Director is Bert Williams and production manager Art Sage. Stage manager is Cpl. P. Howell, RCMP. Miss Benita Considine and Mrs. A. Cranston have painted a 45 by 12-foot backdrop which will be used to set the theme for the presentation. B.C. Electric and the HBC and other firms have provided props and scenery.

Assistant district commissioner for Rover Scouts, Dick Warner, is general chairman. The Rovers comprised the working committee for "Scoutrama."

Money received from the event will go towards camping.

Tickets are available from Scouts of the area.

CANDIDATE DIES

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP) — John Simon, candidate for probate judge in Tuesday's Democratic primary election, died of a heart attack during the voting. Bert Rawlins won the nomination over incumbent Ed W. Gentry, who also collapsed from a heart attack as the bill.

Federal agents said they arrested him when he tried to place a bet at a race track with a bogus $10

tally mounted and was treated as his accomplice. The two old a hospital where his condition was age pensioners pleaded guilty to counterfeiting charges.

Catch Bogus Bettors

DETROIT (AP) — Eighty-two-year-old Paul Carre thought he had a sure-fire way to beat the horses.

Federal agents said they arrested him when he tried to place a bet at a race track with a bogus $10

tally mounted and was treated as his accomplice. The two old

a hospital where his condition was age pensioners pleaded guilty to counterfeiting charges.

Here is the story of a man whose experience might help you or the one dear friend.

Marshall R. George, 31 Rich. Ave., Galt, Ont., writes: "About a year ago I woke up one morning with such a pain in my back I could scarcely move. A friend who saw how I was suffering suggested that I try Templer's T-R-C's. T-R-C's gave me quick and satisfactory relief. You can believe me that I would hate to wake up some morning without T-R-C's in the house. I say wholeheartedly and sincerely that anyone suffering from lumbago, sciatica, rheumatic or arthritic pain should give Templer's T-R-C's a fair trial!" If you suffer from any of these complaints, look for blessed relief with T-R-C's—only 79¢ and $1.50 at drug counters.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING STIMULATES BUYING

Cadillac

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Light Work for Lovely Hands!

It's a pretty tight spot—no question about that!

But it's no work for this lovely lady. For she's at the wheel of a 1956 Cadillac—and here, beyond any question, is the world's gentlest resting place for feminine hands.

In fact, even the most difficult of driving manoeuvres seldom require anything beyond the merest gesture of a hand on the wheel . . . and the lightest touch of a toe on the accelerator.

And this extraordinary ease of handling and driving is, to be sure, only one of the great satisfactions that come to the lucky lady who sits in the driver's seat of the beautiful new Cadillac.

Not only is she always at her ease—but at her loveliest as well.

Seldom, indeed, is a woman seen under more flattering circumstances than she is in the "car of cars"—calm, serene and rested . . . and surrounded by Cadillac's great luxury and beauty.

And how proud and happy she is! For imagine, if you can, the priceless job of owning and driving a motor car recognized everywhere as the "Standard of the World"!

To any lady reading this advertisement, we offer this simple suggestion. Come in soon . . .

spend an hour in this latest and greatest of Cadillacs . . . and see for yourself.

And to any gentleman who might be listening in—well, perhaps there is a lady whom you would like to see always at her ease—and at her loveliest—and at her proudest.

If there is, then you, too, should pay us a visit.

The magic formula is waiting for you in our showroom—and we'll be delighted to assist in the transformation at any time.

P.S.: We have some special news about cost and delivery that you will find difficult to resist. Better come in while the facts are so favorable.

CAN ANYONE FIGHT?...

Moore's Credentials Imposing, But Dusty

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Is there a heavyweight who can fight? With Rocky Marciano retired, that's boxing's big question. In this first of four articles, NEA Sports Writer Jimmy Breslin looks at one of the title contenders.)

By JIMMY BRESLIN

NEW YORK (NEA)—For some reason, Archie Moore didn't move.

He watched as Rocky Marciano held the rope with his left hand and Referee Harry Hessley counted to eight.

There was one minute gone in the second round and it was strange Moore didn't move in. There was no compulsory count to hold him back.

Only a few seconds before, Archie had been all motion. He had come down from his tip-toe, jabbing style and had thrown a flat-footed right hand. It caught the crouching Marciano high in the cheek, spun him around and dumped him to the canvas for the count of three.

Moore's pre-fight promise—"he won't get away"—went out into the crowded Yankee Stadium stands last September as he let Marciano gather his senses and then, when action resumed, took a safety-first approach to the job of further hurting the champion.

The Old Gypsy Comes Back

In the ninth round, Moore was a punched-up wreck and as Charley Johnston, his manager, helped him onto the stool it looked like the last had been heard from the old glove gypsy.

But this is eight months later and there is no Marciano to pummel Moore.

So Archie, ageless and never at a loss for words, talks once more.

"I am the man who must be beaten before a heavyweight champion can be crowned," he says. "How could anybody rate Hurricane Jackson or Floyd Patterson over me? Nino Valdes knocked out Jackson. Joey Maxim beat Patterson. Do you recall what I did to Valdes and Maxim?"

"I'll fight Jackson and Patterson the same night."

"They would be like boys in the ring with a man."

This time around, Moore again has a flock of backers. Teddy Brenner, the matchmaker for New York's St. Nicholas Arena, is one.

"Who bothered to hit Patterson and Jackson in the body?" he asks. "Moore would go right to work on them. They'd think they were in a different business. Moore is a smart guy who can take you out with a punch. He is top-rated in my book."

Archie May Quit Light-Heavy

Moore threatens to vacate the light-heavyweight championship—"I'll retire undefeated"—and claim the heavyweight crown. But he has a contract calling for him to defend the 175-pound title against Yolanda Pompey in London, June 5.

There are those who see Moore the other way around.

"He might be a little old," Jack Barrett, the International Boxing Club's New York matchmaker, says.

"You can't rap a guy who can take you out with a shot like Moore can. But you have to wonder whether a busy kid like Jackson, who can take a punch, or a Patterson, who moves fast, wouldn't wear Moore down."

Since Marciano knocked him out, Moore has fiddled around with warm-up bouts in the west.

Diet Could Be Tough Opponent

Paring down to 175 might weaken him. It didn't bother him, you point out, against Bobo Olson. But that was a year ago and time, with Moore, is important.

Some see Moore as too old to handle Patterson or Jackson. Others see him as too good a fighter even to mention in the same breath with them.

Whichever it is, boxing knows what it is getting if Archie Moore becomes champion. His credentials are by far the most imposing of any heavyweight. It now is a matter of how much dust time has placed on them.

And how much Jackson and Patterson have improved.

Baker Hurdles Holman In Bid for Title Shot

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Big Bob Baker drew first blood in the scramble for the vacant heavyweight throne Wednesday night as he jabbed his way to a unanimous 12-round decision over John Holman in the Miami Beach Auditorium.

Baker weighed 211, Holman 206. Baker, the Pittsburgh giant who has been plagued by brittle hands through much of his boxing career, opened a gash over Holman's left eye in the sixth round and the blood flowed freely over Holman's face as Baker pounded him almost at will in the late rounds.

Holman, the slow-motion Chicago cagoo, who throws a good punch but has difficulty making it land on a good boxer, was a futile figure after the ninth round as he plodded forward in an effort to land a blow that could turn the tide.

TRAINER SUSPENDED FOR STRIKING HORSE

TORONTO (BUP)—The Ontario racing commission today revoked the training licence of owner-trainer Albert Tomei because he struck his horse with a riding crop.

The commission also suspended Tomei for 15 days, effective the beginning of this month.

The incident occurred at the Fort Erie track April 30 when Tomei struck his horse, Marola, on the rump and withers with his riding crop shortly before taking it to the paddock for the eighth race.

GETS DRAW WITH WILLIE

Lou Mauls Muses Mellifluously

By OSCAR FREALEY

United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Carnegie Hall can never be the same today after presentation of an all-star card on which Lou Nova fought a tough draw with William Shakespeare and then literally killed Alfred Noyes.

If that sounds confused, you've got nothing on the fight mob. Because a goodly number—formal in blue suits, brown shoes and red ties—mingled with other patrons of the arts Tuesday night to hear the former heavyweight challenger present a "spring poetry recital."

And the bug-eyed boxing men will forget Nova's knockout by Joe Louis a lot faster than they will Lou's mauling of the muses.

One old doll in a tiara summed it up for the uptown mob when she voted:

"Mister Nova's voice was mellifluous, his enunciation was precise and he knew his lines faultlessly."

Mushky Jackson summed it up for the downtown mob when he voted:

"Jeez, I think we're all punchy."

Nova, it must be confessed, was even more nervous in the dressing room than before the Louis bout. Munching aspirin, he kept checking with flat-nosed Mike Dowd, a former sparring partner, to see what the gate looked like.

When, finally, the bell rang, Nova moved into the spotlight and intoned:

"Macy had a little lamb..."

"Willie The Beard" Gilzberg popped his gum and whispered:

"I told you he fought too long."

"Hah," snorted Nova.

"That's so you guys would know at least one poem I am about to render." (He didn't say "perm," either.)

Lou launched then into "all the world's a stage." He announced, proudly, that it was by "William Shakespeare, the immortal bard."

"And a pretty good half-back at Notre Dame," said

AND HE DIDN'T SAY 'PERM'

Hymie the Mink Wallman in a strident aside.

Lou ignored it and orated for a half hour. Then he took a powder between rounds while a couple of female middleweights sang, as Broadway Charley Jones put it, "acting it out with such ring gestures as shadow boxing, rope skipping and real fancy footwork."

"If he had moved like that the night he fought Louis," signed Raccoon Lippy Breidbart, "he might have been ras-sin' in Norfolk tonight."

JACKSON TO MEET PATTERSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson and Tommy "Hurricane" Jackson were matched Wednesday for a 12-round heavyweight bout at Madison Square Garden June 8 as part of the elimination to determine a successor to heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

The match was announced in the offices of Julius Held, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, who said each fighter will get 25 per cent of the gate or a minimum guarantee of $20,000 plus $20,000 each for radio and television.

Bobo a Winner
---Outside Ring

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Carl (Bobo) Olson today was credited with an out-of-the-ring victory over middle-weight champion Sugar Ray Robinson.

Robinson's managers Wednesday agreed to the use of eight-ounce gloves for the May 18 title bout at Wrigley Field here. Agreement was reached after a lengthy debate in which the champ's crew insisted on the use of six-ounce gloves for the bout.

The matter was settled after it was pointed out that the heavier gloves are required by California law for all bouts over the 147-pound limit. Robinson and Olson are expected to weigh in at 160 pounds.

Both fighters took the day off from training to report for a physical examination by Dr. John Fahay, California Athletic Commission doctor. Fahay concluded, "they're both in excellent shape."

It was the first time either fighter had seen each other since Robinson knocked out Olson for the crown last Dec. 9 at Chicago. Both joked around in the meeting but neither would predict the outcome of the bout in the presence of each other.

Canadian Horse
Runs Far Back

CURRAGH, Ireland (CP)—English-trained Lucero Wednesday won the Irish Two Thousand Guineas against a field of 12 other horses.

Curragh Court, owned by Max Bell of Calgary, finished 12th.

Lucero, a 3-to-1 shot, owned by G. Oldham, finished a neck ahead of Black Patch in the one-mile classic at Curragh race course.

Curragh Court attracted significant support in the Epsom Derby market three weeks ago but has shown nothing in his two races this year. He now is considered unlikely to run in the Derby.

Tommy Byrne has virus bronchitis, verging on pneumonia, and will be lost to New York Yankees for at least a week,

I want to play something special for an old flame, boys. Let's lay it on for the princess," he rasped.

A gasp went over the huge audience in Empress Hall for professional performers are not supposed to refer to members of the Royal Family when playing before them.

She was Princess Margaret and she proved to the few fans who saw her at the Armstrong jazz concert Wednesday night that she was not only Europe's prettiest princess—but the hepest, well.

The princess tapped her feet and clapped at the right choruses as the jazz king wowed 9,000 cats at Empress Hall. It was her first big jazz concert.

"Yes, sir," said Satchmo as the Princess grinned and hugged her knees, "we gonna blow 'em down with one of those old good ones from New Orleans — 'Mahogany Hall Stomp.'

The Princess applauded with enthusiasm.

Mopping his brow with one of the 40 handkerchiefs he uses during a performance, Armstrong hit all kinds of high notes.

SHUNNED BY SOCIETY

Mahogany Hall was the name of a famous sporting house run by the celebrated Madame Lulu White in New Orleans and the music which the early jazz bands played there was not accepted in polite society for years.

If the Princess knew anything about the tune—which she probably didn't—she didn't mind it.

Armstrong played before Margaret's grandfather more than 20 years ago and broke protocol on that occasion when he announced during a hot trumpet break: "This one's for you, Rex."

The women said they had sung hymns frequently during their jail term, took off their clothes and refused to eat during the first few days.

SWING AT BUS DRIVER COSTS PEDESTRIAN $25

NANAIMO—Harvey Bertram, Vancouver, was fined $25 and $4 costs in police court Wednesday by Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts when found guilty of assaulting a Vancouver Island Coach Lines bus driver April 25.

Driver Wilfred Cowan said he had warned the accused and his wife, who were on a bus ramp, with the sound of his air brake. An argument ensued, and when he left the bus he was struck three times on the face, Cowan said.

Naval Vets at Oshawa For 'All-Ship' Reunion

Written For The Canadian Press By JOSEPH MARIAH

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—Salty stories of the Battle of the Atlantic will be retold here this weekend when several thousand naval veterans dock at Oshawa.

The sound of bosom's pipes will echo through Oshawa armories for the first time in its history as the Second Naval Vets' Reunion gets under way with top RCN brass attending the round of entertainment May 11 to 13 inclusive.

Admiral H. G. DeWolf, chief of naval staff, will be an honored guest with Rear-Admiral K. F. Adams, commanding officer of naval divisions. They will be accompanied by other top-ranking officers of the Royal Canadian Navy.

ALL SHIPS REGISTERED

Wartime shipmates will be reunited swiftly through a streamlined registration system set up for the occasion. There is a separate register for every RCN ship that left port during the Second World War. Sailors will sign aboard their personal ship.

A quick flick with a thumbnail down any ship's register can bracket buddies together for a round of reminiscences, bringing back forgotten navy jargon, and the songs they sang together more than 10 years ago.

The official civic reception Saturday will be followed by a parade, and a concert with music supplied by bands from HMCS York at Toronto and HMCS Carleton at Ottawa.

Registration takes place Friday, starting the gala occasion. Saturday night will see a giant get-together banquet, followed by a variety show performed by top entertainers.

A gala dance will be included.

Salted Rockets Fired by Navy Make Rain Fall

DARES-SALAM, Tanganyika (Reuters)—Common salt fired into clouds in two-inch naval rockets has produced rain in experiments in central Tanganyika, it was announced today. Rainfall in the area has been below average this season, but showers fell each day the rockets were fired.

TROPICAL SNOW Colombia, just south of Panama, has snow-crested mountains standing almost on the equator.

Reservations from across Canada have poured into Oshawa during the past month from naval veterans wishing to attend the reunion. An 11-man committee was set up to handle all correspondence and organize the big affair.

This hard-working committee first sent programs and applications for registration to each naval veterans' club, and many separate members whose names were obtained from the navy emergency list.

The committee was named at a meeting in Toronto last November, when representatives from all naval veterans' clubs in southern Ontario met to form a central command.

This meeting was called following the First Naval Veterans' Reunion, held in Peterborough last May, which proved so successful the event was made an annual affair.

Ye Olde Victorians' Cavort At Station, Delight Saskatoon

SASKATOON (CP)—The Victoria Chamber of Commerce goodwill delegation left for Winnipeg Wednesday night after nine-hour stay in Saskatoon.

Record Budget DUBLIN (AP)—The Republic of Ireland government Tuesday night announced a record budget of $147,901,000, boosting the taxes on many traditional pleasures. Fi the delight of the onlookers. Finance Minister Gerald Sweetman cards announced that they were told Parliament that the government intends to get more money this fiscal year from smokers, motorists, dancers and horse-play ers.

The delegation, on a tour of major Prairie cities, includes 19 chamber members, business men and their wives, Hon. W. N. Chant, British Columbia's public works minister, and Mayor P. B. Surrah.

Dressed in an assortment of costumes, supposedly depicting the "typical" Victorian, the group cavorted about the Canadian National Railways station platform to the delight of the onlookers. Finance Minister Gerald Sweetman, was told Parliament that the government intends to get more money this fiscal year from smokers, motorists, dancers and horse-play ers.

The Victoria delegation was met by Mayor John McAskill and officials of the Saskatoon Board of Trade and the Jaycees. They were guests of the trade board at a luncheon. Later they were taken on a tour of the city, including the University of Saskatchewan and the western development museum.

The visitors attended a general membership dinner of the board at which John Fisher, executive director of the Canadian Tourist Association, was guest speaker.

Praising the "way Victoria puts over its story," Mr. Fisher said the B.C. capital's publicity "set an example for the rest of Canada."

Soliloquy from the big chair on the sunny side of the porch . . .

Wonder how many other people my age feel the same way as I do about being my age . . . too old to appreciate the idea of flying at 300 miles an hour in a jet aircraft . . . too young to have known the sight of a four-masted sailing ship under her full burden of canvas . . .

glancing through the UBC's current year book brings one to the unescapable conclusion that one university graduate looks very much like another university graduate . . . seeing all those little pictures, row on row, you can hardly tell the he from she . . .

I greatly admire the reported attitude of Platon Ustinov toward Art for Income's sake . . . if more of our culture characters came right out in favor of cash us short-hairs might appreciate them more . . . I do hope that Mr. Ustinov won't mind, though, if I say his name in print looks like a typographical error . . .

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Lawrence S. Hood, now serving a 2½-year term in Saskatchewan penitentiary for forgery, false pretences and theft, has been sentenced to 18-month concurrent terms on three cheque charges arising in Victoria, city police were informed Wednesday.

Police said he obtained $400 cash by means of three worthless cheques passed in Victoria in September of 1954.

Hood was taken from prison and pleaded guilty to the three charges in Prince Albert court.

City contractors McKinley & Sons Ltd. were low bidders on a proposed eight-room addition to Esquimalt High School with a tender of $38,338.

Contract award will be announced later by building and grounds committee. The additions will be to the north end of the present school and will include a home economics and an industrial arts room. The school has 18 rooms now and may eventually be used as a combined junior-senior high school.

Rain or shine, annual Solarium Junior League tag day will be held in shopping areas of Greater Victoria from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Approximately 500 volunteer workers will tag to help maintenance of Queen Alexandra Solarium here for crippled children.

Last year approximately $2,000 was collected.

People who won't be in town Saturday can send their donations to Post Office Box 177, Victoria.

New offices of Greater Victoria Water District will be opened May 18 in the water board supply yard at Parsons Bridge. The office is located now at 685 Yates.

A new navigation aid has been installed in the Stuart Channel area. Keith Dixon, district marine agent of the department of transport, said today.

It is a lighted beacon, showing a flashing white light, and marks the reef to the northwest of Hudson Island, near Theis Island.

Dr. G. F. Bisnar, consul in Canada for the Republic of the Philippines, paid an official visit today to Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and met with Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

He is newly arrived in Canada to take over the newly-created post in Ottawa.

More than 12,500 Victorians on Wednesday visited the 10th Victoria Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Arena and Curling Rink.

This brings the total attendance for the first three days of the exhibition to 30,000. The target by Saturday, when the show closes, is 90,000.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce issued a warning today against a canvass for funds now being made by an organization known as the Association of Tuberculosis and Ex-Tuberculosis People of B.C.

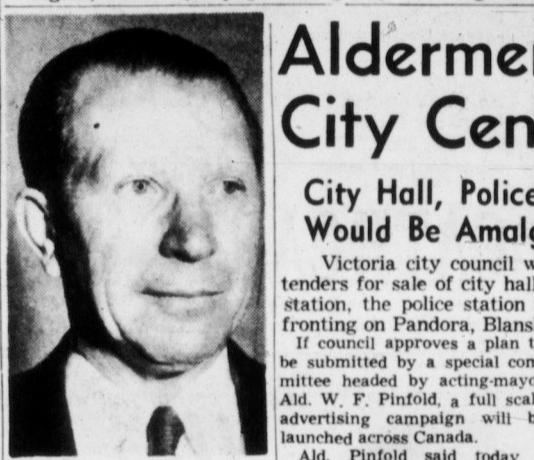

"So far as we can determine this is an unauthorized society," Hector Crombie, secretary-manager of the chamber, said today. "It is not known to the B.C. Tuberculosis Society in Vancouver, and the address given as the association's headquarters, 836 West 13th, Vancouver, is a private address.

Joseph Y. Sinclair, 1342 George, was fined $40 or seven days in jail and his licence was suspended when he appeared in city police court today charged with careless driving.

The plan was evolved by Ald. Pinfold's committee, which includes Ald. Robert Macmillan and Ald. Arthur Dowell, as a means of obtaining funds for construction of a new combined premises for the above-mentioned civic headquarters buildings.

AUGMENTED

Opinions expressed recently by aldermen suggest the building fund could be augmented by a special vote of funds for the advertising campaign will be launched across Canada.

Ald. Pinfold said today a special vote of funds for the advertising campaign will be asked.

Plan is to offer the valuable downtown property as a parcel in hope a mercantile syndicate would be interested. No estimate of the total value was mentioned by the committee but current property values indicate selling price would have to be in the vicinity of $600,000 plus value of the existing buildings.

Civil Servants To Take UBC Course

Civil Service Commission officials are putting the finishing touches on a plan to provide a training course for selected civil servants with the co-operation of the University of B.C.

Object of the course will be to provide training for a group who will be the next senior officials of government."

The university senate has approved the plan, which will start this fall.

About 30 will comprise the initial course. They will study office administration, political science, and related subjects through correspondence and lectures during the winter months.

The plan calls for the trainees to take part in a summer institute lasting "a couple of weeks" on the university campus. The course will take three years.

It is believed the first class will be selected from the Victoria area. Method of selecting trainees has not been decided on, but it is thought applications will be invited from all interested.

The provincial government has wholeheartedly supported the scheme, which was initiated by the civil service commission.

"You might call it an executive development program," said Dr. H. Morrison, commissioner.

Maj. Lander arrived with his wife and teen-aged son after service with the Canadian army in England, where he attended the School of Infantry and Senior Officers' School at Wiltshire.

During the Second World War he served overseas with Stornoway, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders.

Junior officer ranks have been swelled over the past few weeks by the arrival of six officer cadets, most of whom will remain with the unit for several months.

While the CPR has plans to install television sets in all rooms in Toronto's Royal York Hotel by end of summer, the Empress Hotel here plans no such procedure.

A hotel spokesman said to-day installation of sets would be stymied by the present electrical set-up. The hotel generates its own DC current. With television, AC current is needed.

Hotel power plant is beside the laundry on Douglas.

Edward Estlin Takes Bride In New Westminster Ceremony

Holy Trinity Cathedral in New Westminster was decorated with tall standard baskets of white stocks and pink snapdragons and lit by slender white candles in tall candelabra for the wedding of Margaret Alma Linn, RN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lindsay Linn, New Westminster, to Edward Prior Estlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Estlin, Hampshire Road, Victoria. Canon Leslie Pearson officiated at the ceremony and the bride's father gave her in marriage.

Uncle of the bride, Frank Ivings of Victoria, sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register, and organ music was played by Frederick Nelson.

The bride, who is a graduate of Royal Jubilee Hospital, class of 1955, wore a gown of white embroidered nylon net, styled in a redingote over a very full tulle skirt, held out by hoops. Fitted bodice had a high neckline and sleeves were long. A pearl coronet held her fingertip veil of illusion net and she wore the groom's gift, a necklace of pearls. Her bouquet was of pink rosebuds and lily of the valley.

Rideau Hall Spring Ball A Gay Scene

OTTAWA (CP)—The capital's social spotlight focused on the Rideau Hall Wednesday night as nearly 800 guests waltzed at the governor-general's annual ball.

It was the first of two glittering spring events to be held in the gilded ballroom at Government House. A second ball, also with about 800 guests, will be held next Wednesday.

The governor-general received parliamentarians, diplomats, chiefs of staff and officers of the armed services among the long line of guests which moved past him into the ballroom.

Folk Society National Teas

The Canadian Folk Society is sponsoring an interesting series of afternoon teas, beginning Friday Tuesday and continuing for a week.

Each day of the week in the Knights of Pythias hall, Cormorant street, the folk society will hold a tea representing a different country. A Swedish tea will be held Tuesday, with Mrs. E. Swanson as hostess. Mrs. Price will be hostess at an Icelandic tea on Wednesday and Mrs. A. Gilstein will be hostess at a Norwegian tea Thursday. Mrs. Morris Davidsen will be hostess at a Danish tea Friday, and Mrs. T. Grant will be hostess at a Scottish tea Saturday.

At each tea, the country's national foods will be served and national dress will be worn.

Mrs. Percy Scurrill will open the first tea Tuesday at 2 p.m. The teas will continue until 4:30 p.m. Mrs. A. Plows is general convener and the series is under the auspices of the Hudson's Bay Co.

Brentwood—The subject "Cancer" will be discussed at the next meeting of Brentwood PTA, when Dr. L. Wilson, assistant pathologist at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, will show a film and speak. Meeting is on Wednesday, May 16, at 8:45 p.m.

Second June Ball In HMCS Naden

Plans are being made for the second gala June ball to aid the Armed Services Leave Centre. Invitations are being mailed for this popular event which will again be held in the spacious gymnasium in HMCS Naden, with the consent of Commodore P. D. Budge. Committee chairman is J. Courtney Hadcock, assisted by Commodore Budge, Lieut.-Col. W. Mathews, Cmdr. B. F. Gorely, Cmdr. Garfield Dixon, Capt. Reeves, Lieut. Cmdr. G. Powell, FO Bion, Fred Manning, Cyril Wightman and Logan Mayhew. Vice-chairman is Mrs. T. W. Walker; in charge of decorations Mrs. J. Barracough; caterer, Mrs. N. Stenner; invitations, Mrs. R. D. Travay, Mrs. C. W. King and Mrs. G. Masters.

Mrs. Jane Herbert sang "Be cause" and "I Love You Truly." Matron of honor, Mrs. Earl Younge, Haney, B.C., wore a pale blue silk gown, ballerina-length and carried a fan-shaped bouquet of white carnations. Ring bearer was nephew of the bride, David Salter, Yarrow, B.C. Best man was M. M. Salter, brother of the bride, and ushers were Robert Salter, Youbou, another brother of the bride and Tom Walls, Seattle.

Reception was held at the home of Mrs. B. White, Seattle, where a three-tier wedding cake was cut by the bridal couple. Toast to the bride was proposed by S. Hoff, Seattle.

Receiving guests with the bride and groom were their parents.

For travelling, Mrs. Funk chose a pale blue and white ensemble, with white Swiss lace hat, white gloves, and an orchid corsage.

Following their honeymoon, the couple will make their home in Seattle.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Know and Allow for Your Pre-Menstrual Tensions

Yesterday I suggested that menstrual tension is to tell you many women fail to correlate their unhappy moods with the time of month. For some years now the medical profession has realized that an understanding of, and treatment of pre-menstrual tension, is an important factor in successful living.

Research, clinical observation and controlled studies have proven that most women suffer from at least some of the milder symptoms. The problem of alleviating such symptoms has been given intensive study and has been approached from many viewpoints. Today your doctor can help you.

How often have you had the experience of finding life suddenly more difficult in every category? Perhaps you have had trouble with those who wait on you in the stores, the children have seemed unusually hard to manage, friction has developed between you and one or more of your friends, and you have been extremely sensitive or critical in your relationship with your husband. This is a miserable feeling but recognize it for what it is, and control it.

You may have wondered why everything had to go wrong at the same time! Actually, nothing had changed except you! Your whole approach to life and your personality may have changed temporarily because of pre-menstrual tension. The important thing is that you yourself realize this. Also, you should use the medical help available today if your symptoms are a handicap to your happiness.

So much for the effect of this few days before your menstrual periods on your home and social life. Industry has found that pre-menstrual tension accounts for around 40 absentee days per month per 100 women and around 60 decreased-efficiency days per month per 100 women.

As to treatment, consult your physician. Generally you might be wise to cut down on your salt intake since this abets the retention of water. Some doctors have found that large doses of vitamin B complex are helpful because of their effect on carbohydrate metabolism. Others use hormone therapy in combination with other measures.

The important part of my message to you concerning pre-

Veterans' Hospital Auxiliary Makes $639.77 at Dogwood Tea

Pale yellow tulips with sepia brown centres, grown by veteran Charles Wilkins, were used with branches of dogwood to decorate the refreshment tables at the annual Dogwood Tea held Wednesday afternoon in Veterans' Hospital by the women's auxiliary. A sum of $639.77 was realized.

Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross opened the tea and was presented with a dogwood lapel pin by Mr. P. W. Smoothy, Mrs. M. H. Webb Wilkins on behalf of the auxiliary. Mrs. Ross was accompanied by Miss Ruth MacLean.

The head tea table, where auxiliary president Mrs. D. Leslie Macdonell presided, was centred with an arrangement of coral-toned azaleas and lily of the valley, flanked by bowls of the yellow tulips. Seated with Mrs. Macdonell were Mrs. Ross, Miss MacLean, Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, Miss S. J. Roberts, hospital matron; Miss Kathleen Agnew, Brig. and Mrs. J. A. Scott, Treasurers were Mrs. J. S. Adams, Dr. and Mrs. Mrs. H. Ketchell and Mrs. H. C. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. N. Jarvis, and in charge of membership was Mrs. W. Russell.

Throughout the afternoon the RCN band played selections on the lawn in front of the hospital. Padre D. Kendall drew the lucky names for the prizes.

6 IN MEMORIAM

GREGG—In loving memory of a beloved son Brian, age 9½ years, passed away May 10, 1956. Rest in peace battle for life you fought. What courage, endurance and patience. The rest you had—be well again. But just when the future looked bright, you were taken—oh, so soon. The blow was great, the shock never thinking the end so near. But now I believe that up above, your star is shining—to show the way. —Vere remembered by Mummy, Grandma and Grandad.

U.K. Hangs Cypriot Greeks, Spurns U.S. Plea for Delay

LONDON (UP)—U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles personally asked Britain to delay the execution of two Greek Cypriot extremists today and was refused, the foreign office announced.

An official spokesman said Dulles raised the possibility of postponing the hangings during his meetings with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd at Paris last week.

The spokesman firmly declined any further information.

GREAT LAKES SEAMEN STRIKE

By The Canadian Press

Eight Great Lakes ships were made idle and at least nine others were expected to be so today by a strike launched by the Seafarers' International Union, CLC, against two shipping companies.

The strike, which threatens to paralyze shipping on the Great Lakes system broke out as scheduled at noon today and spread through ports from Quebec City and Montreal to Fort William.

Crews began walking off ships at the stroke of noon (9 a.m. PDT), as union and company officials continued talks with a federal government mediator, H. Carl Goldenberg, in an effort to settle the dispute.

Rail Action Ends Threat Of Tieup

Conciliation Report Accepted

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian railways today announced acceptance of the majority report of a conciliation board as the basis for a new agreement with 150,000 non-operating employees.

The move virtually eliminated any possibility of a general railway strike. In a joint announcement, the railways and unions said they will meet here Friday to draft the new agreement.

The conciliation board's majority report proposed an 11 per cent wage increase for the non-operating group, spread over the next 14 months. The contract would run for two years. The railways contended acceptance would require federal subsidy or alternatively higher freight rates.

The unions had sought an 18 per cent increase plus an eight cents an hour contribution by the companies to a health and welfare plan in a one-year contract.

TWO DAYS AFTER TALKS

The railways' acceptance of the report came two days after a breakdown in post-conciliation talks.

The union representatives met in Montreal Wednesday night, but there was no announcement as to what transpired.

The unions already had accepted the award of a board of conciliation but the railway had not. This situation led to post-conciliation negotiations at the request of Labor Minister Gregg.

24 Rockets Go Off

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP)—Two buildings were struck today when 24 rockets were set off accidentally while being unloaded from a Sabre jet plane at Selfridge air base.

'Decent' Russia at Least 10 Years Off, Says Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles said today it is quite possible the Soviet Union has cut its armed forces and may reduce them more. But he said the purpose is not peace and the free world must keep its guard up.

Winding up the Eisenhower administration's appeal to the House of Representatives for a $4,900,000,000 foreign aid authorization, Dulles said nothing has happened in the world situation to make it "prudent to terminate or curtail" the program.

Chairman James Richards (Dem., S.C.) has said the committee might cut the authorization by as much as $1,500,000.

Dulles said there are some "germs of highly favorable developments" in Russia. Speaking of open newspaper debate on Stalin and other issues, Dulles said these might indicate some concession to public opinion by the Soviet leaders.

MAY TAKE A GENERATION

"Our long-range purposes," he said, "is to accelerate the day when the Soviet Union will be a decent state to do business with."

But the secretary said that when he speaks of such a development he is thinking in terms of "10 years or even a generation."

Dulles said he thinks the Soviet Union may be overextending itself by carrying on extensive developments in new weapons, guided missiles, increased industrial bases and intensified agriculture all at once.

"In the light of all that, I think it quite-likely that soon the Soviet Union may reduce some forms of its military establishment, notably in manpower."

He said that while the United States cannot verify whether the announced Soviet cut of 630,000 men from its armed forces actually is being carried out, "it is not unlikely that they would do so and put some of the men to work in industry or agriculture."

This treaty is simple and imaginative. We all join hands together in our wish to avoid the aggressor wherever he may be.

A new condition has been raised by the recent Russian repudiation of Stalin. If it is sincere we have a new Russia to deal with, and I do not see myself why, if this is so, the new Russia should not join in support of this solemn agreement.

We must realize how deep and sincere are Russia's anxieties about the safety of her homeland from foreign invasion.

A true unity of Europe Russia must have her part. I was glad to see that Poland was already not unaffected by the changes in Russian outlook that have recently come to pass.

It may be that other changes will follow. Czechoslovakia may recover her freedom. Above all Germany will be reunited.

We should be rash and blameworthy were we to attempt to solve the problem of European unity, of which German reunification has a vital part, by any violent stroke and we must avoid violence by every means in our power.

Full Text of Speech

Text of Sir Winston's speech:

It is for me a high honor to receive today the Charlemagne prize, in this famous German and European city of Aachen which some call Aix-la-Chapelle. I am proud, too, that my name should be added to the distinguished list of the recipients of the prize who have all contributed so notably to the inspiring theme of European unity and brotherhood.

In an address after receiving the Charlemagne prize for his work Soviet repudiation of Stalin is sincere, we have a new Russia to Churchill said that if the recent deal with.

Pitiful Peace Flickered Out . . .

I have not been in Germany since I came to attend the meeting at Potsdam 11 years ago. I had to leave before it was concluded because of the general election at home and I did not return. Much has happened in these 11 years.

In fact, in the first two years, Russia pursued a policy which divided her from her allies.

We have now been told on high Russian authority that it was the Stalin policy, and Stalin who was then all powerful is now dead.

But meanwhile events moved. There followed speedily during the Stalin policy a reconciliation between the British Commonwealth and the United States on the one hand, and the great mass of Western Germany on the other.

This was indeed an historic event. It led also to the formation of NATO, which now includes no less than 15 countries from Canada and the United States to Turkey and from Ireland to Italy and Portugal.

This treaty is simple and imaginative. We all join hands together in our wish to avoid the aggressor wherever he may be.

A new condition has been raised by the recent Russian repudiation of Stalin. If it is sincere we have a new Russia to deal with, and I do not see myself why, if this is so, the new Russia should not join in support of this solemn agreement.

We must realize how deep and sincere are Russia's anxieties about the safety of her homeland from foreign invasion.

A true unity of Europe Russia must have her part. I was glad to see that Poland was already not unaffected by the changes in Russian outlook that have recently come to pass.

It may be that other changes will follow. Czechoslovakia may recover her freedom. Above all Germany will be reunited.

We should be rash and blame-worthy were we to attempt to solve the problem of European unity, of which German reunification has a vital part, by any violent stroke and we must avoid violence by every means in our power.

Fatal for NATO to Relax

The only unity that might come from violence might be a unity of ashes and death. Clearly it would be fatal for NATO now to relax and let apathy overtake what has been achieved by the efforts and financial sacrifices of the last years.

I have spoken much of NATO and I do not wish to leave the impression that I regard it as the sole and exclusive effective expression of the moves towards united Europe. No one could doubt the usefulness of Western European union, the economic committee, the coal and steel community and the council of Europe.

With all these many of you here have been so closely concerned. But I believe our main theme of salvation should be the grand-alliance of the European powers linked with Canada and the United States with the British Commonwealth as a member—Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, though these are not members of the NATO treaty.

I repeat that the spirit of this arrangement should not exclude Russia and the east European states. It may well be that the great issues which perplex us, of which one of the gravest is the reunification of Germany, today can be solved more easily than they can by rival blocs confronting each other with suspicion and hostility. That is for the future.

Let us go forward to it by reinforcing patiently and surely the arrangements which we have so far achieved.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

FATHER we thank Thee for the love, comfort and protection which each of us finds in his family. May we never make the home dull, bitter or evil . . . for here is the first test of Christian love. May the spirit of Jesus abide in our homes. Amen.

TOPEKA, Man. (AP)—Police James movie. The older boy wandered into the cafe next door looking for a washroom.

With the place full of customers, the boy walked through the dining room, into the bus kitchen, and up a stairway into the cafe office.

There were some half-dollars on a table.

He went back to the theatre and told his younger brother. The little boy went over and got about $100.

They told some older boys they met in the theatre. The other boys told them to go for more.

"They threatened to tell the cops if we didn't do it," Laird quoted the eight-year-old.

SAFE WASN'T LOCKED

So the younger boy went back to the restaurant, this time discovering that a safe in the office was unlocked. He stuffed his pockets with bills.

Several trips later the brothers hid about $500 in a stairway near the theatre. They said they turned the other loot over to the older pair and went with them to bury it.

Laird said $582 was recovered, mostly from the stairway. When the boys took him to the spot where the other money was supposed to be, it was gone.

Footnote: Laird said he left the room once while the boys were talking to the tape recorder. When he came back, his desk had been rifled.

Dr. Steel Still In Coma; Second Operation

Dr. Anne Steel of Victoria entered her fifth day of unconsciousness today after two brain operations to relieve pressure in the skull following a riding accident near Osoyoos Saturday.

He pleaded guilty to both charges today and was remanded for a probation report.

The assault charge arose when police constable John Rickerby was bitten on the thumb while investigating an accident at Bay and Government streets last Saturday night.

Const. Rickerby told court today that after arriving at the scene he repeatedly asked Turlock for his driver's licence and other papers.

He said Turlock attempted to start his vehicle. When he attempted to leave the scene on foot the constable seized him by one arm.

Turlock then told the constable, "If you don't leave me alone I'll fill you in," witness said.

ASKED AGAIN

Const. Rickerby said he then asked the man again for his driver's licence.

The constable was seized by pockets on his tunic and pushed. When he brought his hands up to break the grip he was bitten on the thumb, Const. Rickerby testified.

He said he required assistance from two other constables and one member of the provost corps to break the grip on his thumb.

The thumb was badly lacerated and required medical treatment.

COLLISION

In regards to the driving charge, court was told Turlock had been driving north on Government when he collided with a truck proceeding west on Bay.

Turlock told police it was his fault as he went through a red light, court heard.

Two people in the truck were injured and taken to hospital. Damage to the truck was $500, to the car $350, police said.

Space Held Adequate For Substitute Aged

Victoria welfare officials said today this district is adequately supplied at present with facilities for care of the substitute aged.

City welfare administrator William Hooson said provincial and civic welfare is available to supplement pensions and provide shelter whenever a need is reported.

Pile Drivers' Union Claims Right to Control Dock Work

Donald Bushell, business agent for pile drivers international union local 2415 testified in Supreme Court today his union has complete jurisdiction over work to be carried out at the CPR dock here.

Jurisdiction, he said, was acknowledged by the carpenters' union.

Mr. Bushell's union and carpenters' local 1538 are being sued by G. H. Wheaton Ltd., contractor, for work stoppage last March 28 over a dispute whether carpenters or pile drivers should re-deck the wooden CPR wharf.

Mr. Wheaton claimed carpenters were ordered to stop work by Mr. Bushell and James Moffat, carpenters' business agent, contrary to a collective agreement.

He is asking unclaimed damages from the two business agents and the unions for interfering with his contract.

He also asks a declaration that he is allowed to engage carpenters to carry on the work. Mr. Wheaton also charges pile drivers aided and abetted carpenters to stop work at the job.

One of Mr. Wheaton's main arguments at the trial was that carpenters workers were entitled to work in any capacity on lumber.

Mr. Bushell denied that his union threatened or aided and abetted carpenters to stop work at the dock.

He testified the work stopped as a result of an executive meeting between carpenters' and pile drivers' unions. The unions agreed the work was in jurisdiction of pile drivers.

CAN ANYONE FIGHT?...

Moore's Credentials Imposing, But Dusty

EDITOR'S NOTE: Is there a heavyweight who can fight? With Rocky Marciano retired, that's boxing's big question. In this first of four articles, NEA Sports Writer Jimmy Breslin looks at one of the title contenders.

By JIMMY BRESLIN

NEW YORK (NEA)—For some reason, Archie Moore didn't move.

He watched as Rocky Marciano held the rope with his left hand and Referee Harry Kessley counted to eight.

There was one minute gone in the second round and it was strange Moore didn't move in. There was no compulsion count to hold him back.

Only a few seconds before, Archie had been all motion. He had come down from his tip-toe, Jabbing style and had thrown a flat-footed right hand. It caught the crouching Marciano high on the cheek, spun him around and dumped him to the canvas for the count of three.

Moore's pre-fight promise—"he won't get away"—went out into the crowded Yankee Stadium last September as he let Marciano gather his senses and then, when action resumed, took a safety-first approach to the job of further hurting the champion.

The Old Gypsy Comes Back

In the ninth round, Moore was a punched-up wreck and as Charles Johnston, his manager, helped him onto the stool it looked like the last had been heard from the old glove gypsy.

But this is eight months later and there is no Marciano to pommel Moore.

So Archie, ageless and never at a loss for words, talks once more.

"I am the man who must be beaten before a heavyweight champion can be crowned," he says. "How could anybody rate Hurricane Jackson or Floyd Patterson over me? Nino Valdes knocked out Jackson. Joey Maxim beat Patterson. Do you recall what I did to Valdes and Maxim?"

"I'll fight Jackson and Patterson the same night."

"They would be like boys in the ring with a man."

This time around, Moore again has a flock of backers. Teddy Brenner, the matchmaker for New York's St. Nicholas Arena, is one.

"Who bothered to hit Patterson and Jackson in the body?" he asks. "Moore would go right to work on them. They'd think they were in a different business. Moore is a smart guy who can take you out with a punch. He is tops-rated in my book."

Archie May Quit Light-Heavy

Moore threatens to vacate the light-heavyweight championship—"I'll retire undefeated"—and claim the heavyweight crown. But he has a contract calling for him to defend the 175-pound title against Yolanda Pompey in London, June 5.

There are those who see Moore the other way around.

"He might be a little old," Jack Barrett, the International Boxing Club's New York matchmaker, says.

You can't rap a guy who can take you out with a shot like Moore can. But you have to wonder whether a busy kid like Jackson, who can take a punch, or a Patterson, who moves fast, wouldn't wear Moore down."

Since Marciano knocked him out, Moore has fiddled around with warm-up bouts in the west.

Diet Could Be Tough Opponent

Paring down to 175 might weaken him. It didn't bother him, you point out, against Bobo Olson. But that was a year ago and time, with Moore is important.

Some see Moore as too old, to handle Patterson or Jackson. Others see him as too good a fighter even to mention in the same breath with them.

Whatever it is, boxing knows what it is getting if Archie Moore becomes champion. His credentials are by far the most imposing of any heavyweight. It now is a matter of how much dust time has placed on them.

And how much Jackson and Patterson have improved.

Baker Hurdles Holman In Bid for Title Shot

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Big Bob Baker drew first blood in the scramble for the vacant heavyweight throne Wednesday night as he jabbed his way to a unanimous 12-round decision over John Holman in the Miami Beach Auditorium.

Baker weighed 211, Holman 206. Baker, the Pittsburgh giant who has been plagued by brittle hands through much of his boxing career opened a gash over Holman's left eye in the sixth round and the blood flowed freely over Holman's face as Baker pounded him almost at will in the late rounds.

Holman, the slow-motion Chicagoan who throws a good punch but has difficulty making it land on a good boxer, was a futile figure after the ninth round as he plodded forward in an effort to land a blow that could turn the tide.

O.C. CRICKET

LONDON (Reuters)—Rain washed out play in the Yorkshire-Australian tourists cricket match scheduled to start Wednesday. The downpour restricted play in all other matches in Britain, in which close-of-play scores were:

Middlesex 157 for 5 vs. Nottinghamshire 150; Surrey 195 for 8 vs. Northamptonshire 140; Oxford University 86 for 3 vs. Lancashire 100; Essex 221 for 4 vs. Cambridge University 136; Hampshire 131 for 4 vs. Worcester 130; Essex 212 for 5 vs. Glamorgan 130; Leicestershire 138 for 1 vs. Somerset 130.

TRAINER SUSPENDED FOR STRIKING HORSE

TORONTO (BUP)—The Ontario racing commission today revoked the training licence of owner-trainer Albert Tomei because he struck his horse with a riding crop.

The commission also suspended Tomei for 15 days, effective the beginning of this month.

The incident occurred at the Fort Erie race track April 30 when Tomei struck his horse, Marola, on the rump and withers with his riding crop shortly before taking it to the paddock for the eighth race.

GETS DRAW WITH WILLIE

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Carrie Hall can never be the same today after presentation of an all-star card on which Lou Nova fought a tough draw with William Shakespeare and he knew his lines faultlessly."

If that sounds confused, you've got nothing on the fight mob. Because a goodly number—formal in blue suits, brown shoes and red ties—mingled with other patrons of the arts Tuesday night to hear the former heavyweight challenger present a "spring poetry recital."

Nova, it must be confessed, was even more nervous in the dressing room than before the Lou bout. Munching aspirin, he kept checking with flat-nosed Mike Dowd, a former sparring partner, to see what the gate looked like.

When, finally, the bell rang, Nova moved into the spot, light and intoned:

"Mister Nova's voice was mellifluous, his enunciation was precise and he knew his lines faultlessly."

Mushky Jackson summed it up for the downtown mob when he voted:

"Jeez, I think we're all punchy."

Nova, it must be confessed, was even more nervous in the dressing room than before the Lou bout. Munching aspirin, he kept checking with flat-nosed Mike Dowd, a former sparring partner, to see what the gate looked like.

When, finally, the bell rang, Nova moved into the spot, light and intoned:

"Lou had a little lamb..."

"Willie 'The Beard' Gilberg popped his gum and whispered:

"I told you he fought too long."

"Hah," snorted Nova. "That's so you guys would know at least one poem I am about to render." (He didn't say "perm," either.)

Lou launched then into "all the world's a stage." He announced, proudly, that it was by "William Shakespeare, the immortal bard."

"And a pretty good half-

back at Notre Dame," said

Hymie the Mink Wallman in a strident aside.

Lou ignored it and orated for a half hour. Then he took a powder between rounds while a couple of female midwives sang, as Broadway Charley Jones put it, real informers.

"When I was one and 20,"

one yodeler added, and some of the boys thought it kinda nasty to remind Lou that at that age he was a "corner."

The other one did a ditto about a hungry whale—"and let's not hear any cracks."

The matter was settled after it was pointed out that the heavier gloves are required by California law for all bouts over the 147-pound limit. Robinson and Olson are expected to weigh in at 160 pounds.

Both fighters took the day off from training—to report for a physical examination by Dr. John Fahey, California Athletic Commission doctor. Fahey concluded, "they're both in excellent shape."

It was the first time either fighter had seen each other since Robinson knocked out Olson for the crown last Dec. 9 at Chicago. Both jockeyed around in the meeting but neither would predict the outcome of the bout in the presence of each other.

AND HE DIDN'T SAY 'PERM'

suggested Tommy Loughran, not wanting anybody to put the rap on old Lou.

Lou came back, then and fetched Shakespeare a couple more belts. And then, winding it up, he really murdered Noyes' "The Highwayman," acting it out with such ring gestures as shadow boxing, rope skipping and real fancy footwork.

"If he had moved like that the night he fought Louis," sighed Racoony Lippy Breibart, "he might be ras-slin' in Norfolk tonight."

JACKSON TO MEET PATTERSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson and Tommy "Hurricane" Jackson were matched Wednesday for a 12-round heavyweight bout at Madison Square Garden June 8 as part of the elimination to determine a successor to heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

The match was announced in the offices of Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, who said each fighter will get 25 per cent of the gate or a minimum guarantee of $20,000 plus $20,000 each for radio and television.

Lou Mauls Muses Mellifluously

NEW YORK (UP)—Carrie Hall can never be the same today after presentation of an all-star card on which Lou Nova fought a tough draw with William Shakespeare and he knew his lines faultlessly."

If that sounds confused, you've got nothing on the fight mob. Because a goodly number—formal in blue suits, brown shoes and red ties—mingled with other patrons of the arts Tuesday night to hear the former heavyweight challenger present a "spring poetry recital."

Nova, it must be confessed, was even more nervous in the dressing room than before the Lou bout. Munching aspirin, he kept checking with flat-nosed Mike Dowd, a former sparring partner, to see what the gate looked like.

When, finally, the bell rang, Nova moved into the spot, light and intoned:

"Lou had a little lamb..."

"Willie 'The Beard' Gilberg popped his gum and whispered:

"I told you he fought too long."

"Hah," snorted Nova. "That's so you guys would know at least one poem I am about to render." (He didn't say "perm," either.)

Lou launched then into "all the world's a stage." He announced, proudly, that it was by "William Shakespeare, the immortal bard."

"And a pretty good half-

back at Notre Dame," said

Hymie the Mink Wallman in a strident aside.

Lou ignored it and orated for a half hour. Then he took a powder between rounds while a couple of female midwives sang, as Broadway Charley Jones put it, real informers.

"When I was one and 20,"

one yodeler added, and some of the boys thought it kinda nasty to remind Lou that at that age he was a "corner."

The other one did a ditto about a hungry whale—"and let's not hear any cracks."

The matter was settled after it was pointed out that the heavier gloves are required by California law for all bouts over the 147-pound limit. Robinson and Olson are expected to weigh in at 160 pounds.

Both fighters took the day off from training—to report for a physical examination by Dr. John Fahey, California Athletic Commission doctor. Fahey concluded, "they're both in excellent shape."

It was the first time either fighter had seen each other since Robinson knocked out Olson for the crown last Dec. 9 at Chicago. Both jockeyed around in the meeting but neither would predict the outcome of the bout in the presence of each other.

Matthews Still A Magic Name

WEMBLEY, Eng. (AP)—England, revitalized by the return of right wing Stanley Matthews, 41-year-old maestro of English soccer, defeated Brazil 4-2 in an international match before 100,000 fans in Wembley Stadium Wednesday.

Matthews who was brought back to the English team after a recent disappointing draw with Scotland, had a hand in four goals. In upsetting the favored Brazilians, England took a 2-0 lead in the first half, saw the visitors tie the score in the second half, then went on to win with two more goals.

Brazil had good, close passing but lacked a sharpshooter and never reached the standard of soccer sports writers had expected. Most had picked the South Americans, winners of five out of six exhibitions on the continent, to win this one. But England was easily the better team.

Matthews, the veteran Blackpool star, helped set up the first goal in the second minute with a square pass to forward Johnny Haynes (Fulham) who relayed to center forward Tommy Taylor (Manchester United).

Two minutes later, Matthews got out by Joe Louis a lot faster than they will Lou's mauling of the mutes.

One old doll in a tiara summed it up for the upturn mob when she voted:

"Mister Nova's voice was mellifluous, his enunciation was precise and he knew his lines faultlessly."

Mushky Jackson summed it up for the downtown mob when he voted:

"Jeez, I think we're all punchy."

Lou launched then into "all

Lawrence S. Hood, now serving a 2½-year term in Saskatchewan penitentiary for forgery, false pretences and theft, has been sentenced to 18-month concurrent terms on three cheque charges arising in Victoria, city police were informed Wednesday.

Police said he obtained $400 cash by means of three worthless cheques passed in Victoria in September of 1954.

Hood was taken from prison and pleaded guilty to the three charges in Prince Albert court.

City contractors McKinty & Sons Ltd. were low bidders on a proposed eight-room addition to Esquimalt High School with a tender of $98,398.

Contract award will be announced later by building and grounds committee. The additions will be to the north end of the present school and will include a home economics and an industrial arts room. The school has 18 rooms now and may eventually be used as a combined junior-senior high school.

Rain or shine, annual Solarium Junior League tag day will be held in shopping areas of Greater Victoria from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Approximately 500 volunteer workers will tag to help maintenance of Queen Alexandra Solarium here for crippled children.

Last year approximately $2,000 was collected.

People who won't be in town Saturday can send their donations to Post Office Box 177, Victoria.

New offices of Greater Victoria Water District will be opened May 18 in the water board supply yard at Parsons Bridge. The office is located now at 685 Yates.

A new navigation aid has been installed in the Stuart Channel area, Keith Dixon, district marine agent of the department of transport, said today.

It is a lighted beacon, showing a flashing white light, and marks the reef to the northwest of Hudson Island, near Theis Island.

Dr. G. F. Bisnar, consul in Canada for the Republic of the Philippines, paid an official visit today to Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and met with Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

He is newly arrived in Canada to take over the newly-created post in Ottawa.

More than 12,500 Victorians on Wednesday visited the 10th Victoria Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Arena and Curling Rink.

This brings the total attendance for the first three days of the exhibition to 30,000. The target by Saturday, when the show closes, is 90,000.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce issued a warning today against a canvass for funds now being made by an organization known as the Association of Tuberculosis and Ex-Tuberculosis of B.C.

"So far as we can determine this is an unauthorized society," Hector Crombie, secretary-manager of the chamber, said today.

"It is not known to the B.C. Tuberculosis Society in Vancouver, and the address given as the association's headquarters, 836 West 13th, Vancouver, is a private address.

A short, sudden shower overnight brought 14-110ths of an inch of rain to the Victoria area, according to the official gauge.

But prospects remain on the "mostly sunny side," with the occasional shower. A new air mass moving from the interior B.C. will bring slightly cooler temperatures, from 40 to 55.

Fine of $40 or seven days in jail and a licence suspension was imposed in city police court today on Frank Robert Carlow, 2607 Selwyn, Langford, when he pleaded guilty to a speeding charge.

Police said the accused was parked at 60 mph in a 30 mph zone on Douglas street between Burnside and Francis on April 28.

Joseph Y. Sinclair, 1342 George, was fined $40 or seven days in jail and his licence was suspended when he appeared in city police court today charged with careless driving.

Police said the accused was driving south on Foul Bay road May 2 when his auto sideswiped a power pole near Quamichan, sideswiped a sign and then collided with a second power pole.

Damage to the car was $700.

Two persons escaped injury when a car went out of control and crashed through a fence at 2323 Oak Bay avenue at about 2:30 a.m. today.

Police said the driver, James R. Laird, 990 Cowichan street, and a passenger, Mrs. R. Pelleter, 1049 Redfern, escaped without injury.

They said Mr. Laird was driving toward Victoria on Newport when a flat tire caused the car to go out of control. It went over a curb, climbed a rocky, crashed through the fence and came to rest on Douglas.

Second Battalion Queen's Own Rifles of Canada received a new senior officer at Camp Gordon Head this morning. He is Maj. Fred Lander, who will be commanding officer of "A" Company.

Maj. Lander arrived with his wife and teen-aged son after service with the Canadian army in England, where he attended the School of Infantry and Senior Officers' School at Wiltshire.

During the Second World War he served overseas with Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders.

Junior officer ranks have been swelled over the past few weeks by the arrival of six officer cadets most of whom will remain with the unit for several months.

While the CPR has plans to install television sets in all rooms in Toronto's Royal York Hotel by end of summer, the Empress Hotel here plans no such procedure.

A hotel spokesman said today installation of sets would be stymied by the present electrical set-up. The hotel generates its own DC current. With television, AC current is needed.

The schools plan to advise parents by letter prior to graduation that such parties are frowned upon.

Recommendations will be issued to all teachers that they refuse to take part in any after-party parties.

Principal at Victoria High, H. D. Dee, said today:

"When the youngsters leave the school dance (ends at 1 a.m.) we feel they will have had enough. We deplore any feeling they might have that they have to go 'out on the town.'"

He added that if parents feel it necessary to permit later partying, it should be limited to supervised house parties. Public places and the highways should be avoided.

"We are unanimous in not subscribing to the all-night party idea. The school function should give sufficient enjoyment."

He revealed that the letters going to parents regarding the graduation ceremony will require a signature and return of the letter to ensure that all know of the midnight closure of activities at that school.

Police chiefs of the four municipalities, Victoria, Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt, expressed themselves as follows:

Chief John Blackstock, Victoria: "We've been lucky. Liquor hasn't been a police problem and I don't see any difficulty if the parties are well chaperoned.

He felt there had been no complaints of drinking in connection with past grad parties at Mount Douglas.

Dr. J. M. Thomas, principal at Mount View, said he did not personally oppose the all-night parties except when they were unchaperoned.

Chief Gilbert Stancombe, Esquimalt: "I think as far as juveniles are concerned the system should be discouraged."

Chief Hugh Reston: "Every year it gets a little worse. Some of the parties range from down town to Shawnigan. When youngsters are running around all night something is going to happen. They are going a bit too far and parents should take a hand in the matter."

Saanich police have had experience with grad parties which went wrong in the past. Deputy-chief W. A. Pearson says:

"I'm dead against all-night parties. In too many instances there is a complete lack of interest by parents."

He recommended that parents get together and if there is to be an all-night party let it be carefully supervised.

Outsiders Crash Parties

Deputy Pearson said it was only in a few cases that graduates themselves took liquor to these events, but they were placing themselves in position where outsiders might bring it in. He warned there would be strict and harsh treatment for juveniles in possession or persons convicted of supplying this year.

School board authorities say they have done what they could to curtail excessive celebration.

The board in recent years has insisted that graduation parties and dances be held on school premises with a view to keeping the youngsters from public places such as highway dining spots, where official school ceremonies once were conducted.

All of the authorities interviewed placed the responsibility for the present situation squarely on the parents.

If they can't put their collective foot down who else can, school and police authorities wonder.

One school authority suggested the demand for all-night parties would be squelched if a parents' petition were started.

Biggest factor in permitting the parties to progress now is the inability of the individual father or mother to say "no" to the argument that they stand alone in their views.

If they would hold a protest meeting, they could probably get the use of a school hall. It rests in their own hands," he stated.

Teachers Urge Parents To Join in Firm Stand

By PETE LOUDON

A strong recommendation against parents permitting this year's high school graduates to conduct unchaperoned overnight "coming-out" parties has been issued by principals of five Greater Victoria high schools.

School authorities say they deplore trend developed in recent years for graduating youngsters to beg family cars and hold private parties after organized ceremonies are over and wind up a night of celebration with a graduation breakfast.

Edward Estlin Takes Bride In New Westminster Ceremony

Holy Trinity Cathedral in New Westminster was decorated with tall standard baskets of white stocks and pink snapdragons and lit by slender white candles in tall candelabras, for the wedding of Margaret Alma Linn, RN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lindsay Linn, New Westminster, to Edward Prior Estlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Estlin, Hampshire Road, Victoria. Canon Leslie Pearson officiated at the ceremony and the bride's father gave her in marriage.

Uncle of the bride, Frank Ivings of Victoria, sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register, and organ music was played by Frederick Nelson.

The bride, who is a graduate of Royal Jubilee Hospital, class of 1955, wore a gown of white embroidered nylon net, styled in a redingote over a very full tulle skirt, held out by hoops. Fitted bodice had a high neckline and sleeves were long. A pearl coronet held her fingertip veil of illusion net and she wore the groom's gift, a necklace of pearls. Her bouquet was of pink rosebuds and lily of the valley.

Rideau Hall Spring Ball A Gay Scene

OTTAWA (CP) — The capital's social spotlight focused on stately Rideau Hall Wednesday night as nearly 800 guests waltzed at the governor-general's annual ball.

It was the first of two glittering spring events to be held at the gilded ballroom at Government House. A second ball, also with about 800 guests, will be held next Wednesday.

The governor-general received parliamentarians, diplomats, chiefs of staff and officers of the armed services among the long line of guests which moved past him into the ballroom.

Folk Society National Teas

The Canadian Folk Society is sponsoring an interesting series of afternoon teas, beginning next Tuesday and continuing for a week.

Each day of the week in the Knights of Pythias hall, Cormorant street, the folk society will hold a tea representing a different country. A Swedish tea will be held Tuesday, with Mrs. E. Swanson as hostess. Mrs. Price will be hostess at an Icelandic tea on Wednesday and Mrs. A. Gilstein will be hostess at a Norwegian tea Thursday. Mrs. Morris Davidsen will be hostess at a Danish tea Friday, and Mrs. T. Grant will be hostess at a Scottish tea Saturday.

At each tea, the country's national foods will be served and national dress will be worn.

Mrs. Percy Scurrill will open the first tea Tuesday at 2 p.m. The teas will continue until 4:30 p.m. Mrs. A. Plows is general convener and the series is under the auspices of the Hudson's Bay Co.

Know and Allow for Your Pre-Menstrual Tensions

Yesterday I suggested that many women fail to correlate their unhappy moods with the time of month. For some years now the medical profession has realized that an understanding of, and treatment of pre-menstrual tension, is an important factor in successful living.

Research, clinical observation and controlled studies have proven that most women suffer from at least some of the milder symptoms. The problem of alleviating such symptoms has been given intensive study and has been approached from many view points. Today your doctor can help you.

How often have you had the experience of finding life suddenly more difficult in every category? Perhaps you have had trouble with those who wait on you in the stores, the children have seemed unusually hard to manage, friction has developed between you and one or more of your friends, and you have been extremely sensitive or critical in your relationship with your husband. This is a miserable feeling—but recognize it for what it is, and control it.

You may have wondered why everything had to go wrong at the same time! Actually, nothing had changed except you! Your whole approach to life and your personality may have changed temporarily because of pre-menstrual tension. The important thing is that you yourself realize this. Also you should use the medical help available today if your symptoms are a handicap to your happiness.

much for the effect of this few days before your menstrual periods on your home and social life. Industry has found that pre-menstrual tension—accounts for around 40 absences days per month per 100 women and around 60 decreased-efficiency days per month per 100 women.

As to treatment, consult your physician. Generally you might be wise to cut down on your salt-intake since this abets the retention of water. Some doctors have found that large doses of vitamin B complex are helpful because of their effect on carbohydrate metabolism. Others use hormone therapy in combination with other measures.

The important part of my message to you concerning pre-menstrual tension is to tell you that there is a physical reason for it, even for your craving for sweets at this time. You and your family should understand this so that when you are "touche" or unduly irritable apparently for no real reason (and you may be once in a while even though you try to control yourself), everyone will understand and act accordingly.

GRAND ALLIANCE WITH REDS PROPOSED BY CHURCHILL

New Middle East Attack Charged

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Bitter new charges of attack and murder flew between Israel and its Arab neighbors today, shortly before United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold submitted a final report on his Middle East peace mission.

Egyptian authorities had charged that Israeli soldiers bayoneted a Palestinian farmer to death near Gaza and wounded an Arab national guardsman.

No Warden's Court

VANCOUVER (CP)—Action against three prisoners who held a guard hostage with a razor at his throat for six hours Monday will be left to the higher courts, Warden Hugh Christie of Oakalla prison said today.

Mr. Christie said that by his decision to take no action he was doing "no favor" to convicts Robert Tremblay, Marcel Frenette and Charles Talbot.

Four Days in Coma

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—A 17-year-old girl who has been in a coma since she was found unconscious in her bedroom four days ago is puzzling doctors here.

Cecile Morneau was found by her mother when she tried to wake her for work. Hospital authorities said she is gradually regaining consciousness but is far from recovered.

GMC Slows Down

DETROIT (UP)—General Motors Corp. said today all of its automotive assembly operations will shut down tomorrow "in order to balance production with current customer demand."

The giant auto company said production will resume at all plants on Monday.

RIFLED COP'S DESK ALSOBandits, 7, Rob Safe Six Times

TOPEKA, Man. (AP)—Police today held two little brothers, 7 and 8, and accused them of filching $1,200 from a restaurant safe.

Lieut. Don Laird, chief of the police department's youth bureau, said that as near as he could piece together the story, one or the other walked in and out of the Main Street Cafe six times to get the money. They wanted to buy candy.

It was so fantastic that Laird had them tell it to a tape recorder.

An older boy was their undoing.

He told police the boys were going around with a lot of money.

WANDERS AT WILL

Laird said the brothers went to a theatre to see a Jesse

Guilty Plea
In Assault
On Policeman

Paul Turlock, Victoria, will be sentenced in city police court Tuesday on charges of assaulting a police officer and carelessly driving last Saturday.

He pleaded guilty to both charges today and was remanded for a probation report.

The assault charge arose when police constable John Rickerby was bitten on the thumb while investigating an accident at Bay and Government streets last Saturday night.

Const. Rickerby told court today that after arriving at the scene he repeated asked Turlock for his driver's licence and other papers.

He said Turlock attempted to start his vehicle. When he attempted to leave the scene on foot the constable seized him by one arm.

Turlock then told the constable, "If you don't leave me alone I'll fill you in," witness said.

ASKED AGAIN

Const. Rickerby said he then asked the man again for his driver's licence.

The constable was seized by pockets on his tunic and pushed. When he brought his hands up to break the grip he was bitten on the thumb, Const. Rickerby testified.

He said he required assistance from two other constables and one member of the provost corps to break the grip on his thumb.

The thumb was badly lacerated and required medical treatment.

COLLISION

In regards to the driving charge, court was told Turlock had been driving north on Government when he collided with a truck proceeding west on Bay.

Turlock told police it was his fault as he went through a red light, court heard.

Two people in the truck were injured and taken to hospital. Damage to the truck was $500, to the car $350, police said.

Space Held Adequate For Destitute Aged

Victoria welfare officials said today this district is adequately supplied at present with facilities for care of the destitute aged.

City welfare administrator William Hooson said provincial and civic welfare is available to supplement pensions and provide shelter whenever a need is reported.

"There are vacancies in approved boarding homes and some vacancies occur weekly in private hospitals. The matter of providing this care is up to individual doctors. We go almost entirely on their recommendations."

Mr. Hooson was interviewed on the question: "Is there any need for any aged person in this community to suffer because his pension is insufficient and he is unable to care for himself?"

CANT FORCE THEM

"No," said the administrator. "But it's a free country. If the individual won't accept this care because his pension is insufficient, we can't force him to do so."

He said there are almost 800 beds in licensed nursing homes and hospitals now.

"By large, we are never stuck."

He said there have been cases when elderly persons insist on living alone in harsh circumstances.

Pile Drivers' Union Claims Right to Control Dock Work

Donald Bushell, business agent for pile drivers international union local 2415 testified in Supreme Court today his union has complete jurisdiction over work to be carried out at the CPR dock here.

Jurisdiction, he said, was acknowledged by the carpenters' union.

Carpenters' business agent, contrary to a collective agreement, are entitled to work in any capacity on lumber.

He is asking unstated damages from the two business agents and the unions for interfering with his contract.

He also asks a declaration that he is allowed to engage carpenters to carry on the work. Mr. Wheaton also charged pile drivers aided and abetted carpenters to stop work by Mr. Bushell and James Moffat, carpenters.

He testified the work stopped as a result of an executive meeting between carpenters' and pile drivers.

One of Mr. Wheaton's main arguments at the trial was that carpenter-
